Huerta Is Preparing To Flee From Mexico

Mayor Leads Hot Chase After Greek Who Bumped Into Lady on Whitehall

Uncle Jim Woodward, mayor of the metropolis of Atlanta, came to the aid of a lady last night on Whitehall street, in front of Nunnally's, shortly after 8 o'clock, when a Greek, named Joe Siket, bumped into him and a moment later bumped into Mrs. R. E. Church, wife of a prominent attorney, who was walking out Whitehall street with her husband.

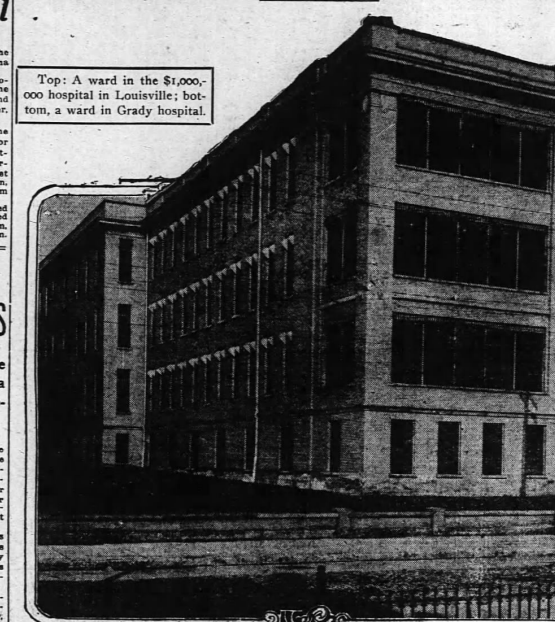
Enraged at the Greek's action, Mr. Church turned upon him, seizing him by the collar. Just then the mayor rushed up and ordered Mr. Church to turn him loose and to "let me have him." When Mr. Church complied, the Greek managed to break loose, dodging a vicious right uppercut from the mayor and running toward Alabama street, the mayor in hot pursuit.

The Greek turned into Alabama, going west to Broad street. Seeing the mayor in pursuit, Policemen Doulas and Wommock, standing on the corner, joined the chase.

At the corner of Broad street the Greek turned north, with the mayor close at his heels, and the more fleet-footed officers gaining upon the pursued every step. At the Broad street viaduct the Greek was chased down, and the mayor seized him, placing him under arrest.

A large crowd had been attracted by the pursuit. When they recognised the heroic role played by Uncle Jim, they showered their praise upon him.

Typical Hospital Wards in Two Big Cities; Comparison Shows How Atlanta Suffers



Top: A ward in the $1,000,000 hospital in Louisville; bottom, a ward in Grady hospital.

No better illustration of the need for a greater Grady could be found than the comparison of a typical Grady ward with the typical ward of a modern hospital.

The typical Grady ward is a low, one-story, frame building, totally unfit for hospital purposes. It is worse, if anything, on the inside than the out. The different wards are connected by long, dark corridors, in every one of which the floors are falling to pieces. Every ward is overcrowded, and extra beds are lined along the sides of the hallways. The typical Grady ward is twenty years out of date. In most of them the floors are sinking and the walls are shedding plaster. As a fire risk, the average Grady ward compares unfavorably with a tinder-box.

In Louisville, which is about equal with Atlanta in population, they have a $1,000,000 hospital. It is new, modern, and well equipped. It has a capacity of 450 patients against Grady's capacity of 186. The wards are three stories high and of the most up-to-date, fire-proof construction. There are enough of them, also, to accommodate the sick of Louisville's population.

Atlanta needs wards of similar size and construction. The Grady bond issue provides for the building of them. The bonds will be voted on next Tuesday. Vote for them.

GRADY BOND ISSUE LEADERS CONFIDENT OF WINNING BATTLE

Campaign for a Greater Institution Will Come to a Close Today—Polls Will Be Open Tomorrow.

WORKERS SHOW VALUE OF HOSPITAL TO CITY

Rev. Fred A. Line Urged Bonds in Sermon Sunday. Dr. Proctor Asked Negroes to Vote for Issue.

This is the last day of the campaign for a greater Grady hospital. Tuesday, the voters will decide whether Atlanta is to have a modern, adequate city hospital—a hospital which will measure up to the Atlanta standard, and the standard of every other progressive city—or go on with the wornout and overcrowded institution which it has at present.

Confidence that the bonds would pass was expressed yesterday, not only by those who have been working for them, but by various persons who have been too absorbed in the county campaign to pay much attention to the Grady issue. The general opinion seemed to be that more than the requisite two-thirds of the registered vote is in favor of a greater Grady.

The only fear of the bond-workers now is that some of the greater Grady's advocates will fail to vote. If every man in the city were for the new hospital, a few defections at the polls would still be sufficient to kill it. Particular stress is therefore being laid upon the necessity of all those who believe in a greater Grady voting for it.

"There has only been one serious opponent of the Grady bonds," said Ivan E. Allen, vice chairman of the general committee, yesterday. "That is an opponent which every public improvement must have—indifference. It's the hardest opponent to overcome, because it is intangible.

Indifference, Only Foe.

"To pass, the Grady bonds must have two-thirds of the entire registered vote. The average election doesn't even bring out two-thirds of the registered vote. Remember, it doesn't mean two-thirds of the vote cast, but two-thirds of the vote registered. Everything possible is being done to get out a full vote, but it is absolutely certain that a certain number of people will fail to go to the polls. A certain number of people always do. Every failure of this kind will count as effectively against the bonds as though a vote had been cast against them.

"The bond boxes will be as close to the county boxes as we can get them. The law provides that they must be in a separate room, but that room will be far away. The voter will only have to take a step from the county box. He may be sure that those who are opposed to the bonds will take the step. If those who are in favor of them will take it also, the bonds for a greater Grady hospital will pass."

A. R. Kirkpatrick, editor of the Journal of Labor, and one of the most enthusiastic advocates of the bonds, went this agrice of Mr. Allen's one better.

"My advice," he said, "would be to vote on the bonds first and the county election later. After all, we have a county election every two years, whereas this is only the second time in twenty-three years that the city has been asked to vote bonds for Grady. I don't suppose anyone will take this seriously, but it's a good scheme, anyhow. If everyone made a point to do it, we wouldn't need to worry any more about the bonds not getting a full vote."

The Pay Wards.

Except for indifference, the bond workers believe there is no serious opposition. There is, of course, the man who is chronically opposed to any kind of civic improvement and who usually reaps more benefit than anyone else from any improvement which is made. This type may be depended upon to vote against the Grady bonds. The bond workers are prepared for that.

DORSEY TO PROBE DEFENSE METHODS

C. W. Burke and Jimmie Wrenn Will Undergo a Severe Grilling by the Solicitor Today.

C. W. Burke and Jimmie Wrenn, the two private detectives attached to the counsel for Leo M. Frank, will appear before Judge Ben Hill this morning at the capitol when the hearing for a retrial will be resumed, to answer to charges of bribery and criminal operations that have been made against them by various witnesses.

It is reported that the many charges of bribery and crooked operations made recently will be investigated by the grand jury when it goes into its next session, on the request of Solicitor Dorsey.

Dorsey neither denied nor corroborated this report. He refused to discuss it. He would not say, however, that he did not intend pushing such charges before the grand jury. He smiled when approached on the subject, saying:

"I have nothing to say. Please content yourself with awaiting developments!"

Detective William J. Burns has left the city for Oklahoma. He stated on his departure, however, that he would return within ten days, or less, and that his investigation would continue during his absence under the supervision of Dan S. Lehon, who has been subpoenaed to appear before Judge Hill this morning.

Another charge of bribery has been made against operatives for the defense. J. S. Duffey, the witness who was put in jail under an attachment issued for Solicitor Dorsey by Judge Hill, upon being released, recanted the affidavit he made for the defense, and declared that the statement he made on the witness stand was the truth.

He has stated that he was bribed by investigators for Frank's counsel to tell the story which he told in the defense affidavit, and supplied Solicitor Dorsey with names of the alleged bribers. They will be forced to make explanations today when the hearing is resumed before Judge Hill.

Sensations are expected when Mr. Dorsey again takes up his counter showing against the defense retrial motion. It is stated that he has an amount of additional evidence which is to be submitted this morning, and that much of it is even more sensational than the startling evidence which has already been produced.

DIAMOND NECKLACE WORTH $2,000 LOST

Mrs. John D. Little Asks Police to Look for Valuable Piece of Jewelry.

Seeing grand opera ... two Atlanta women dearly.

Mrs. John D. Little, of 760 Peachtree street, reported to Assistant Chief of Police Jett last night that on Wednesday night she had lost either at the Auditorium-Armory or on the street on her way to Gilmer street to her residence, at the Capital City club, her diamond necklace, valued at $2,000. The diamond, a large stone, was set in platinum and was suspended on a gold necklace. She offers a handsome reward for its recovery.

Mrs. J. L. Eichberg, of 417 Washington street, reported also last night that on Saturday night at the Auditorium she had lost a crown brooch, valued at $1,000. The brooch was set with nine diamonds, nine rubies and nine pearls. She is willing also to give a handsome reward for the recovery of her valuable brooch.

THREE TAX EQUALIZERS IN CHATTOOGA RESIGN

Lyerly, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Chattooga county's board of tax equalizers, appointed a few weeks ago in compliance with a new law, handed in their resignations to the county commissioners this week. The men who resigned from the position were J. V. Wheeler, W. G. Watson and C. N. Pursley. The board did not appoint another board of equalizers, stating that it would take the matter up with the state tax commissioner and if he says there must be a board of tax equalizers this year, a new board will be appointed.

No reason was given by the board members for their resignations.

WORSHAM ELECTED CONSERVATION HEAD

State Entomologist Highly Honored at Meeting of Executive Committee of Congress Held in Chicago.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the National Conservation congress, held in Chicago, Friday and Saturday, E. Lee Worsham, state entomologist of Georgia, was elected president of the congress to succeed Charles Lathrop Pack, of Cleveland and Lakewood, N. J., a capitalist and scientific forester.

Mr. Pack was re-elected to the presidency of the national congress at its convention at Washington last November, but resigned because of business reasons.

The National Conservation congress, which was organised five years ago in Seattle, is an organization of organizations in all parts of the country, whose object is to promote the conservation of the natural resources, of human life and the promotion of business efficiency. It is one of the most representative bodies of the American people.

Convention in South.

It was the sentiment of the executive committee that the next convention which will be held some time next fall, should be held in the south. New Orleans and St. Louis are making strong bids for the convention.

The conservation congress was a strenuous fighter for the establishment of the Appalachian park in north Georgia, North and South Carolina and Tennessee and other states. This, in the course of time, will be of great value to these states.

At the last meeting of the congress more than 3,000 people were present. The main questions taken up at that time were forestry and water power.

SUICIDE EPIDEMIC STRIKES ATLANTA

Twelve Attempts to End Life Made in Gate City by Those Weary of Living in Last Month.

During the last month there have been in the city of Atlanta 12 attempts on the part of men and women to commit suicide. This large number illustrates the truth in the contention of the medical world that suicides follow one another due to psychological causes, that one suicide will usually start a series of suicides.

Four of the attempts to suicide have proven fatal. The others, due to the excellent work of the Grady hospital physicians, and the dispatch with which they handled the cases, have been saved, some by a narrow escape.

A month ago a pretty 18-year-old girl, living on Trinity avenue, was the first to tire of this mortal burden, and seek to end her life by swallowing the contents of a bottle of poison. This was her fourth attempt to "shuffle off this mortal coil," and she failed for the fourth time, due to the quick action of the Grady physicians.

Dictator Willing to Quit on Condition That He Be Assured Safe Conduct to a Port and Be Placed on Board a Foreign Warship—Carranza Refuses to Agree to Armistice—Proposes to Push Fight on Huerta.

Vera Cruz, May 3.—Persistent reports continue to circulate here that General Huerta intends to retire from the provisional presidency of Mexico on condition that he be assured a safe-conduct to a port and be placed on board a foreign warship.

It is declared in some Mexican circles, in this city, that General Huerta was ready to resign a week ago, but was prevented by internal dissensions in his cabinet.

The resignation of Jose Lopez Portillo y Rojas, the foreign minister, coupled with reports that there is a growing undercurrent of feeling in Mexico City against the Huerta government, is interpreted here as foreshadowing a change in the situation in the federal capital.

MEDIATION PLANS ARE BEING PUSHED BY THREE ENVOYS

United States, Huerta and Carranza Are Expected to Name Delegates Within the Next Day or Two.

ARMISTICE IS REFUSED BY GENERAL CARRANZA

Rebel Chief Announces He Will Continue to Attack Huerta's Forces While the Mediators Work.

Washington, May 3.—The mediation plans of the South American envoys who are trying to straighten out the troubled affairs of Mexico went ahead by fits and starts today, and while there were no formal sessions, the mediators conferred during the afternoon and evening on what had been done and the next step in their procedure.

The United States, the Huerta government and General Carranza are expected to name their delegates, as requested by the mediators last night, within the next day or two. The delegate for the United States has not yet been selected, but it became known today that it would not be one of the officials closely identified with the government.

As the three South American envoys are accredited to the United States, this government does not wish to name a government official to deal with them, but to have an outsider who would deal with them without reference to their official relations to the United States. This has eliminated Robert L. Lansing, counselor of the state department, and in general all other government officials.

The names of John Bassett Moore, John Lind and Henry White, already mentioned, are now added those of Richard Olney, former secretary of state; Dr. David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany, and Hannis Taylor, former minister to Spain. The Huerta delegate is expected to be Francisco De La Barra, now Mexican minister at Paris, but nothing definite has been heard from Mexico City. Rafael Zubaran, personal representative of General Carranza, arrived here yesterday, and is available as the Carranza delegate, although his particular mission in coming from Carranza is still to be announced, and it is not yet definite that Carranza will go to the extent of naming a delegate to deal with the mediators.

To Take Up Crucial Issue.

When the delegates of the three parties arrive, it is expected the mediators will be ready to take up the crucial issues between the United States and Huerta, at least, and, if possible, between Huerta and Carranza. Whether a plan of adjustment can be worked out is still an open question, even in the minds of the mediators. They expect the delegates from the three parties to assist them to get together on some middle ground. The mediators will continue to be the main body formulating a plan of settlement, as the delegates from the three parties will have no plenipotentiary powers and will act merely as advisers.

It became definitely established today that General Carranza would not agree to the request of the mediators that he suspend military operations against Huerta pending the mediation proceedings, and the envoys have been advised of this decision. It has been apparent for several days that Carranza intended to push his army southward, but it was not until the last twenty-four hours that this was communicated as a finality. It is said this will have no effect on checking the general plans of mediation, which will go steadily forward.

Close associates of Carranza who have now arrived here say that no mediation between them and Huerta is possible and that any move on the part of the three mediators to include in their progress a scheme for

WHO WILL SUCCEED THE DICTATOR?

Close observers here of the government's situation believe Senor Portillo's resignation may clear the way eventually for the appointment of a foreign minister, who, under the Mexican constitution, could succeed General Huerta as president. In these circles it is pointed out that while Venustiano Carranza declined to treat with General Huerta, he might consent to enter into negotiations with his successor and thus facilitate mediation.

Continued rebel successes in the north, and attacks on Tampico, may, in some opinions, bring about a change of policy.

The interior was reported quiet today. People arriving here from the capital said the populace was beginning to learn that General Huerta was deceiving them all the time by issuing false reports of federal successes over constitutionalists.

PREFER AMERICANS TO VILLA.

News of the peaceful way in which Americans are occupying Vera Cruz, it is said, has spread to the capital, and has convinced the people there that the American invasion of the port is not for conquest or aggression. The capital's inhabitants fear the coming there of Francisco Villa more than that of the American troops, it is said.

Elements in Mexico City, which cling to the memory of the late President Francisco I. Madero, are reported to have been incensed by the arrest of deputies, who were cast into jail on the charges of conspiracy.

AMERICANS WARNED TO LEAVE CAPITAL.

Mexico City, May 3.—Another warning was received today by the Brazilian minister from Consul William W. Canada, at Vera Cruz, who advised the remaining Americans in the federal capital to leave without delay. In referring to this, the Brazilian minister said to the Associated Press:

"I met General Huerta casually this morning, and received from him repeated assurances that both he personally and his ministers would do everything possible to secure the safety and complete protection and comfort of the Americans remaining in this country.

"When I referred to the request I had made this morning to the department of foreign relations, for a special train for Americans desiring to leave the federal capital, General Huerta immediately gave orders for the necessary arrangements to be made, and the train will leave the city for Coatzacoalcos at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"General Huerta informed me that the train would carry the requisite number of sleeping cars for the women and children of the party, and would run under the protection of the Brazilian flag and with an adequate military escort to guard passengers.

"The Brazilian consul and vice consul will accompany the train on behalf of the Brazilian legation."

Rumors as to the ill-health of Provisional President Huerta apparently are unfounded, as he took his usual walk in the Chapultepec woods today, and later appeared in a prominent restaurant. He was cheered by the people on the streets.

Business interests are suffering from lack of mail facilities, and the British and Brazilian ministers have arranged with the war department for an emergency department.

It is said five or three Mexican delegates will be appointed to represent the Mexican government at the conference, and that their names will be announced shortly. The general feeling here in regard to the conference is pessimistic.

HATING AMERICANS BISHOP DROPS DEAD.

Mexico City, May 3.—The Right Rev. Manuel Rivera, Roman Catholic bishop of Queretaro, died suddenly today while driving in an anti-American parade.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE URGED BY CARDINAL

Baltimore, May 3.—Cardinal Gibbons, who yesterday telegraphed Archbishop Mora y del Rio, of Mexico, suggesting that the people under their charge be urged to pray for a peaceful outcome of the Mexican crisis, today received the following reply:

"Thanks for the message of sympathy. . . . Prayers are offered continually to our Blessed Lord, and bare-footed pilgrimages are made to the Shrine of Guadalupe."

Cardinal Gibbons said in his telegram:

"Your nation and mine ardently desire to avert the calamity of war and to preserve the relations of friendship and mutual respect which have hitherto united us."

ROME EDITOR LAUDS POLICY OF WILSON

Rome, May 3.—The Giornale D'Italia publishes a long editorial today couched in terms favorable to the course of the United States in Mexican situation.

"They may overthrow the statue of George Washington from its pedestal in Mexico," the paper says, "but without Washington there possibly would be no constitutional government in the world today and certainly none in Mexico. America's call for equal representation of the Latin republics at The Hague and she invited Mexico to the third peace conference there. No two men living have rendered greater personal service toward peace than President Wilson and Secretary Bryan."

MEXICANS LAY MINES IN INLET TO TAMPICO

Washington, May 3.—Reports to the navy department from Rear Admiral Mayo indicate that Mexicans have mines in the Panuco river, the inlet to the city of Tampico, from the Gulf of Mexico.

The cruiser navigable to Tampico for only comparatively light draft vessels. Two weeks ago, the scout cruiser Chester, the gunboat Dolphin and one or two other cruisers were lying in front of Tampico in the river. The ships were ordered from the harbor to the gulf. This scarcely had been accomplished, it is said, before the Mexicans mined the river.

TRUCE IS REFUSED BY GEN. CARRANZA

Rebel Chief Notifies Mediators He Won't Agree to Armistice—Fight Against Huerta to Be Pushed.

El Paso, Texas, May 3.—General Venustiano Carranza has formally declined the suggestion of the South American mediators that the cease hostilities against Huerta pending the outcome of the plan of mediation. The note was sent to Washington yesterday was made public here today.

No importance is attached here to the report that the rebels and federals at Tampico are arranging a truce. It is assumed that if true the cessation of hostilities is for the purpose of burying the dead or removing the wounded.

Carranza's Telegram.

The text of General Carranza's telegram declining the armistice follows:

"I again direct myself to you for the purpose of answering your respectful message regarding the armistice, calling your attention to the fact that the international conflict with the United States was intentionally provoked by Huerta, and for the solution of this I hurriedly accepted, in principle only, the good offices of Brazil, Argentina and Chile, which act is independent of our internal strife for liberty and law, and I consider it inconvenient for the rebel cause that I represent to suspend hostilities and military movements, because said suspension would only accrue to the benefit of Huerta in the civil war now going on in Mexico between the usurper, Huerta, and the constitutional army under my command. The sovereign citizenship is in arms with all activity to re-establish as soon as possible the constitutional order which will produce peace.

"By the virtue of the above I state to you I state that I cannot accept for the armistice which you propose.

"Consider my act solely as one who has been acting with the determination of doing only what he considers best for the interests of his suffering country."

Arrieta Brothers Make Trouble.

General Carranza, shortly after his arrival at Torreon early this week, went to visit the city of Durango, in the state of that name, to establish a civil government. The situation there, it is said, has caused him much anxiety because of the dominance of the Arrieta brothers, Benjamin and Domingues. These men having recruited three or four thousand men, announced their allegiance to Carranza, but it is alleged they have merely used the rebel banner as a cloak for looting and outrage.

At the battle of Torreon, General Villa assigned the brothers to a position forming a link to his lines around the city. The Arrietas, it is said, intent on looting Durango, declared they would fight only in that state. By this means, it is said, the Federal General Velasco had no difficulty in escaping when he evacuated the city.

For their disobedience, General Villa ordered the brothers incarcerated, but as the execution of the order would have required an army officer, it was not made effective. The Arrietas, however, resenting Villa's action, offered their services to Huerta, but experienced difficulty in getting such support from Garadaza.

They reopened negotiations with Carranza, it is said, agreeing to join in the general rebel movement and to protect any civil government Carranza might install in the state. It is under the terms of this agreement that Carranza will make his trip.

PROTECTION SOUGHT BY THE OIL COMPANIES

Houston, Texas, May 3.—Oil companies operating in the Tampico district, made, partially Panuco, have called a meeting for May 7 in New York to discuss steps to obtain protection for their holdings, which have been threatened with destruction by the forces of the Mexican factions. Representatives of all companies are expected to be present at the meeting, which will be international in character, according to F. B. Clark, jr., vice president of a New York firm dealing in oil supplies in Mexico, who was here today en route from Tampico to New York. He said the companies owned by Mexican capital would also be represented.

"From information which I have received in regard to the proposed meeting," said Mr. Clark, "the public, the interested appears to be to take such action as may be considered necessary to bring the situation before the United States government in the hope that as quickly as possible, and ask for immediate protection by that government. Foreign companies in the Tampico fields will take such steps as they deem best to induce their governments to bring pressure to bear upon this country to insure immediate action upon the part of the United States. Should the United States refuse to act then American companies will likely turn to foreign powers and ask them to protect American interests in Mexico."

HUERTA GUARANTEES SAFETY TO DR. RYAN

Mexico City, May 2.—Dr. Edward Ryan, the American condemned to be executed at Zacatecas a few days ago, was to have arrived here yesterday, but until this evening had not reached the capital. The war department has not yet given any reason for the delay, but declares Dr. Ryan, under a strong escort of Mexican troops, has passed through Aguas Calientes.

The minister of war had officially notified the Brazilian minister to Mexico that Dr. Ryan would be delivered into the care of the Brazilian legation, which is in charge of the interests of the United States during the absence of its diplomat. Provisional President Huerta today gave assurances that Dr. Ryan would be sent to Tampico.

It was expected that about 500 American refugees would arrive in the capital today or tomorrow. Application for safe conduct for the train had been made by 315 Americans. More than 200 Americans reached here last night from Guanajajao and Zacatecas mining districts. They requested that arrangements be made for their repasture for Vera Cruz. A special train for Germans left last night for Vera Cruz.

It was learned today that Roberto Esteva Ruiz, the foreign office undersecretary, had made application on Friday to the Brazilian minister for passports to take him through the American lines at once from the capital on his way to Washington. On a mission of state, not the request for passports was cancelled Saturday by the Mexican government.

The war office has telegraphed all federal commanders to cease hostilities against Dr. Ryan and Americans alike on account of the arrangements of an armistice.

Governor Joaquin Maas, federal commander at Saltillo, was expected to arrive here today to confer with the war office as to the military situation there. Officers reaching here from the north say the 2,500 federals which defended Monterey have arrived in Saltillo.

MEDIATION PLANS ARE BEING PUSHED

the general adjustment of Mexican affairs will be regarded as being out-side the scope of their labors.

Rebels Pushing Huerta.

Meanwhile the campaign against the Huerta forces in the north is proceeding full force, the mediation work not being considered by the constitutionalists as having any effect upon the war relations between Huerta and themselves. Gen. Manuel Diaz, Mexico City, according to those near Carranza, is to be undertaken as soon as military operation in the north will permit.

Carranza's refusal of an armistice between him and Huerta is the first adverse reply the mediators have received. On the other hand, favorable comment, is made in circles close to the envoys upon the amicability Huerta has shown.

Aside from the personnel of the delegates from the three parties to the controversy, the mediators have given some informal consideration as to whether it may become desirable to go to some neutral point outside of Washington to carry forward their negotiations with the three parties concerned. The only purpose in this would be to forestall the feeling on the part of any one of the parties that their sessions at the seat of government here might tend to a leaning toward their viewpoint of the United States, the desire being to make their deliberation as detached and independent as possible. This has led to informal suggestions that Havana, or possibly some border point in Canada, be selected as a place of meeting. Havana will not be chosen, however, owing to the heat and the number of Mexican refugees there, while Canada, being a British colony, might suggest European influences. It is more likely, therefore, that if some point outside of the American capital is finally decided upon, it will be at some mountain resort, or in New England at one of the points frequented by members of the diplomatic circles. The Russo-Japan peace negotiations were carried on at the quiet town of Portsmouth, N. H.

NO PERIL TO AMERICANS IN THE MEXICAN CAPITAL

Washington, May 3.—The Brazilian minister at Mexico City, representing the interests of the United States there, notified the state department today that 160 Americans have reached the Mexican capital from Guanajuia. The refugees express grateful thanks for the kind treatment and protection afforded them by Governor Cuellar.

The minister reported that the Mexican government had promised as many trains as necessary to take out Americans. He added that there is no danger to Americans in the Mexico City and that a number refuse to leave.

Consul General Canada at Vera Cruz, reported that eight refugees arrived from Mexico City today. One of them was Howard Jones, of Atlanta, Ga.

Consul Garrett reported from Laredo that he has located the body of Porfirio Larel and had permission from rebel authorities from Nuevo Laredo, to bring it to Texas for burial.

Give "Snipers" "Ley Fuega" For Shooting Down a Girl On Streets of Vera Cruz

How American bluejackets gave a squad of Mexican "snipers" in Vera Cruz the "Ley Fuega" for shooting an American girl is graphically told by George Cason, in Hartwell, Ga., who left with Rear Admiral Badger on the New Hampshire, and who was one of the gallant lads who wrote history with Rear Admiral Fletcher at the taking of Vera Cruz.

"Ley Fuega" is the Mexican fugitive law. It permits the killing of fleeing prisoners.

According to Cason, who was in the thick of all the fighting around and in Vera Cruz, and who was one of the first to land while Old Glory was being strung to the breezes of the Mexican gulf over the custom house, the American girl was being escorted to the dock when Mexican "snipers," fortified in houses along the route, shot her down.

Snipers Made Prisoners.

"Marines who were patrolling the streets dashed into the house from which the shot was fired," Cason writes to relatives in Atlanta. "The greasers were dragged out by our boys, and five or six were made prisoners.

"Then the marines turned them loose and they started to run. When the Mexicans dashed off down the streets, the marines opened fire and each one of the greasers fell."

Cason, who got a first view of the landing of the American marines, and who was in the thick of the fighting on the streets, says bullets flew thick.

While the street warfare in Vera Cruz was hottest, the steamer City of Mexico was tied up at the wharf and her decks were crowded with American, German and British refugees. Every now and then the "snipers" on the buildings would pour lead into the helpless passengers.

According to young Cason, one incident which will be long remembered by American and British bluejackets occurred while the Americans were landing reinforcements. A Mexican sharpshooter had been taking pot shots at British sailors on His Majesty's warship Essex. One of the British marines was slightly wounded before a marine in one of the whaleboats discovered the location of the hidden marksman. As the boat neared the shore, the American jacket cracked his rifle, and the Mexican toppled from his place of vantage. When the whaleboat passed alongside the Britisher, the tars cheered the jackets.

Fired on All Sides.

Young Cason relates a number of incidents in which Americans and foreigners fell victims of the Mexican sharpshooters. He says that the Mexicans fired on all ships, regardless of nationality, and that it was only "poor marksmanship" that saved non-combatant crews. Cason says that prior to the landing of the American forces, Vera Cruz was in a state of chaos. He says that gambling houses flourished, and that liquor flowed freely. He states that refugees in Vera Cruz tell exciting stories of flight from Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

"At all stations they were threatened and insulted," he says, by hordes of enraged Mexicans, and at one station they were taken out of trains, but released by a federal officer. At some places along the line the tracks were torn up and they were forced to walk. At each of these places they were fired upon by Mexicans concealed along the road but few were hit. Most all the refugees leaving Mexico City are leaving great fortunes behind them."

Young Cason writes further that the powerful searchlights on the battleships, and the dragging out by our boys of six were made prisoners.

"Then the marines turned them loose and they started to run. When the Mexicans dashed off down the streets, the marines opened fire and each one of the greasers fell."

Cason, who got a first view of the landing of the American marines, and who was in the thick of the fighting on the streets, says bullets flew thick.

While the street warfare in Vera Cruz was hottest, the steamer City of Mexico was tied up at the wharf and her decks were crowded with American, German and British refugees. Every now and then the "snipers" on the buildings would pour lead into the helpless passengers.

According to young Cason, one incident which will be long remembered by American and British bluejackets occurred while the Americans were landing reinforcements. A Mexican sharpshooter had been taking pot shots at British sailors on His Majesty's warship Essex. One of the British marines was slightly wounded before a marine in one of the whaleboats discovered the location of the hidden marksman. As the boat neared the shore, the American jacket cracked his rifle, and the Mexican toppled from his place of vantage. When the whaleboat passed alongside the Britisher, the tars cheered the jackets.

Fired on All Sides.

Young Cason relates a number of incidents in which Americans and foreigners fell victims of the Mexican sharpshooters. He says that the Mexicans fired on all ships, regardless of nationality, and that it was only "poor marksmanship" that saved non-combatant crews. Cason says that prior to the landing of the American forces, Vera Cruz was in a state of chaos. He says that gambling houses flourished, and that liquor flowed freely. He states that refugees in Vera Cruz tell exciting stories of flight from Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

"At all stations they were threatened and insulted," he says, by hordes of enraged Mexicans, and at one station they were taken out of trains, but released by a federal officer. At some places along the line the tracks were torn up and they were forced to walk. At each of these places they were fired upon by Mexicans concealed along the road but few were hit. Most all the refugees leaving Mexico City are leaving great fortunes behind them."

Young Cason writes further that the powerful searchlights on the battleships, and the dragging out by our boys, and five or six were made prisoners.

"Then the marines turned them loose and they started to run. When the Mexicans dashed off down the streets, the marines opened fire and each one of the greasers fell."

Cason, who got a first view of the landing of the American marines, and who was in the thick of the fighting on the streets, says bullets flew thick.

Heaviest Life Loss.

"The heaviest loss of life occurred around the naval academy which was vigorously shelled by the Arkansas. Reports say that more than 200 Mexicans fell at the academy."

According to young Cason, all American refugees have been taken care of, and have been supplied with the necessities of life.

Young Cason has been in the navy two years. He is 22 years old. He enlisted in Georgia. He has seen service in the navy yards, and has also acquired considerable experience as a gunner. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cason, of Hartwell, Ga., and a brother to Mac A. Cason, of Atlanta, who is connected with the Southern railway, and who was also in the navy four years with Rear Admiral Evans. He was in Mexico about two years ago, when the fleet was at target practice.

UNITED STATES FLAGS TRAMPLED AND BURNED

Americans at Manzanillo Subjected to Many Insults by the Mexicans.

Washington, May 3.—American Consul Stadden, of Manzanillo, who arrived at San Diego, Cal., Friday aboard the German steamer Marie, with 239 refugees, reported to the state department today that Mexicans, on the day of his departure, had taken American flags from the consulate, trampled and burned them. He and his fellow Americans had been given forty-eight hours to leave Mexico, dating from noon, April 22. Adolph Steff, Norwegian consul at Manzanillo, had forced the Marie to lift life and boarded the Marie as a refugee. The consul said had it not been for the good offices of the British and German consuls, many Americans in the Colima district would have been "slaughtered." Some Americans arriving had not been from the interior were forced to pay 1,000 pesos each to the military authorities.

"There are in the Guadalajara district," said the consul's report, "fifty Americans who are not able to get out and who surely will be mobbed the moment an American war vessel enters Manzanillo harbor, which has been mined.

"The federals are prepared to abandon the town and blow up the Armaria bridge.

"The proclamation forcing Americans out, read as follows:

"To the chief of arms, of the State of Colima, orders that I communicate to you that there is conceded forty-eight hours, which will end today, April 22, for all Americans to leave this country or otherwise they become naturalized Mexicans."

REFUGEES CLAMOR FOR WAR.

New Orleans, May 4.—The Ward Liner Monterey, with 623 refugees aboard, reached quarantine tonight. Many of the refugees had not been declared with Mexico, the refugees called a meeting for midnight, at which resolutions criticising the present policy of the United States with regard to the Huerta regime will be presented.

Among the refugees were more than fifty persons, men, women and children, who had been locked in Mexican prisons following the first attack by the Atlantic fleet on Vera Cruz. Among the refugees was Dr. J. M. B. Hurd, proprietor of a chemical plant near Mexico City. Dr. Hurd told of a narrow escape from arrest by Huerta soldiers, of being hidden in the Dutch embassy at Mexico City, and of finally being spirited aboard a refugee train to Vera Cruz, where he arrived safely.

According to Dr. Hurd, after the firing at Vera Cruz, a detachment of federal Mexican infantry was sent to seize his plant, which was wanted for the manufacture of smokeless powder for the Huerta government, while another detachment was sent to take him prisoner. Dr. Hurd says he was unable to say who understood the process of smokeless powder manufacture.

Dr. Hurd said his wife, a Mexican woman of distinguished family, stood at the door of his home and detained the federals while he escaped from the rear, and that she later escaped and joined him, not, however, until the soldiers had threatened to assault her. Four Mexican women who resided in the Hurd home, he stated, were assaulted by the soldiers, who were enraged at their failure to take the chemist.

THREE PERSONS MISSING AND THREE MAROONED

Geary, Okla., May 3.—Three persons are reported missing and three are marooned in tree tops in the South Canadian river near Bridgeport, 4 miles south of here, as the result of floods which swept away the $125,000 Rock Island steel bridge there late today.

Several hundred persons have been compelled to abandon their homes, and the lowlands have been flooded. Much damage has been done to growing crops.

The well of water 15 feet high swept the valley early today, and was increased this afternoon by a second wall of water 15 feet high and a half wide. The Rock Island bridge resisted the flood for two hours, then gave way, carrying the six men with it.

Four of the party were P. J. McCoy, a railroad employee; L. W. Warner and William Noland, all of Geary, and Leo Lininger, of Bridgeport. Tonight Lininger was reported in a tree top about 10 miles down the stream. McCoy and either Warner or Noland are in a tree about 2 miles down the river. No report has been received from the other men.

James Conley, of Bridgeport, is in a tree on an island in midstream, where he has been marooned since morning. Attempts to rescue him have failed.

Wire communication to a number of points along the river is interrupted.

Makes His Last Appeal to the Voters of Fulton County

MY FELLOW CITIZENS AND VOTERS:

In making this, my last appeal to you for your vote on Tuesday, next, for Tax Receiver of Fulton County, I do so with a deep sense of what it means in asking you to honor me with your vote.

But I believe that the twenty-eight years of my life that has been spent in Fulton County, in honorable and upright living, entitles me to ask you to thus honor me. And more especially when I tell you that I have never held or asked for an office, either elective or appointive, before.

And while I am free to admit that it was a selfish motive that first prompted me to make an effort to secure the office of Tax Receiver, that I might better the conditions of myself and family, I have made the fight on the Salary System issue; and in event I should be elected, the people will receive a far greater benefit from my success than I will.

For it will mean a victory for the people for Lower Taxation in Fulton County.

And it will be a rebuke to T. M. Armistead, who is asking you to re-elect him as Tax Receiver, that he cannot defy and defeat the will of 85 per cent of the voters; and, in doing so, aid in burdening you with the highest taxation that has ever been in Fulton County.

You will also have an opportunity next Tuesday to teach another candidate a valuable lesson—W. H. Abbott, the Dodger candidate, who is running hand in hand with T. M. Armistead & Co. (only more deceptive); he is opposed to the Salary System, and is willing that you be burdened with high taxation that he may enjoy the Fifteen Thousand Dollars, through the Fee System, for serving you three months as Tax Receiver.

Mr. Taxpayer, there is but one question for you to decide before casting your ballot on Tuesday for Tax Receiver: Are you willing to be taxed to pay T. M. Armistead or W. H. Abbott Fifteen Thousand Dollars for serving you three months as Tax Receiver?

If not, cast your ballot for W. F. Wesley, who voted for the Salary System, and is willing to serve at the Four Thousand Dollars—the price fixed by the people.

And remember, in defeating Mr. Armistead you have retired him to a fortune that you have given him through many years in office.

And in defeating W. H. Abbott you have returned him to a splendid position that he has held for many, many years, at a handsome salary, with the Hon. Arnold Broyles.

And in electing me you will have done one a favor not so fortunate as either of them.

Thanks for your vote.

Respectfully,

W. F. WESLEY.

The General says:
"My three big roofing and building paper mills are the most complete in the world"

Large scale production, modern and scientific manufacturing methods, unexcelled shipping facilities—these are some of the factors that determine the cost and quality of any manufactured article. This is the reason for our success and the success of our dealers on

Certain-teed

Quality Cert-ified Roofing Durability Guaran-teed

At each of our three mills we manufacture the following complete lines of roofing and building papers, etc.:

Certain-teed Roofing —extra quality—for use where long and efficient service is required—reasonable in price—made in rolls (1, 2 and 3-ply) guaranteed 5, 10 and 15 years—for factories, farm buildings, stores, warehouses, etc.

Certain-teed Roofing Cement —for coating and waterproofing purposes.

Certain-teed Asphalt Coating —for coating and as a built-up form of roofing.

Certain-teed Roof Coating —gives new life to old roofs—contains no coal tar.

Certain-teed Asphalt Filler —for built-up roofs and waterproofing purposes—do not dry out as tarred felts do.

Certain-teed 20X Slate Surfacing —a heavy felt saturated in Certain-teed Cement and coated with crushed slate, making a handsome, durable roofing that comes out in a few pieces when new. Certain-teed Asphalt Shingles are more satisfactory.

Certain-teed Tarred Felt —No. 1, 2 and 3 —slater's felt, stringed felt, dry saturated felt.

Resin-sized Sheathing —red and green—for general sheathing purposes.

Blue Plaster Board —for lining inside walls, etc.

Deadening Felt —used between walls and floors and under carpets.

Coal Tar and Pitch.

SPECIAL—Certain-teed PLASTIC CEMENT —for semi-hard consistency, applied with a putty knife—for repairing leaks in metal, felt and tile roofs, flashing, repairing gutters and water troughs; in fact, has a hundred uses around a house. For sale by dealers. If your dealer does not handle it, send us 25c for small can by parcel post as an introductory offer.

All the above goods are put up in standard size rolls, weight and packages. They are accepted as standard by leading architects and engineers. Be sure the goods are made by us; we stand behind them. Sold by dealers everywhere at reasonable prices. Your local dealer will be glad to give you information about our goods.

MANY PROBLEMS FOR METHODISTS

General Conference of the Southern Church to Convene in Oklahoma City. The Vanderbilt Question.

Oklahoma City, May 3.—More than 3,000 ministers and laymen are expected to attend the quadriennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, which will convene here Wednesday. The conference will adjourn May 28.

While a number of matters of importance are to be discussed before the conference, the law-making body of the church, interest centers chiefly in the action to be taken which regard to Vanderbilt university, which the supreme court of Tennessee has held not to be the property or under the jurisdiction of the church. Whether a new college will be built or some existing school selected as the representative educational institution of the church will be threshed out first before the educational committee and later before the conference as a whole.

The question of equal suffrage for women and whether or not greater power should be vested in the laity of the church will also be considered. Another matter which is expected to be the subject of considerable debate is whether or not permanent places of residence of the bishops should be determined by the conference. At present bishops are permitted to choose their own place of residence.

Men prominent in church affairs declare it is not probable that any new bishops will be selected this year. Seven bishops were elected at the last quadriennial conference. Secretaries and general officers of the church board, however, will be elected. The bishops of the church, in the order of their seniority in the episcopacy, will preside over the sessions of the conference.

COURTS TO DECIDE INTERMENT PLACE OF T. E. WILLIAMS

While his parents and his widow are fighting in the courts over where shall be the final resting place of his body, the funeral services of Thomas E. Williams, who died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Williams, 263 Sunset avenue, Friday morning, were held from the chapel of Barclay & Brandon Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. W. H. Bell officiating.

It is the wish of his parents that the body be buried in their family plot in Hollywood cemetery, in Atlanta, while his widow wishes to have the interment take place in the burial plot of her kith and kin in Dalton.

The parents and the widow have called upon the courts to decide the question. The case will probably be argued Wednesday. Meanwhile the body of Thomas E. Williams will rest in Barclay & Brandon's undertaking establishment.

MRS. B. I. MINGLEDORFF DIES AT SANITARIUM

Mrs. B. I. Mingledorff, 30 years old of 86 Capitol avenue, died in a private sanitarium Sunday morning at 6 o'clock. She is survived by her husband, who is manager of the People's Furniture company; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Bell, of Cedartown, and Miss Florence Busbin, of Rome; by her father, John Busbin, of Lyerly.

She was a prominent member of the Gordon Street Presbyterian church, of which her husband is a deacon.

The funeral will be held from the chapel of A. O. and Roy Donehoo, Monday night at 8 o'clock, the Rev. Arnold Shankman officiating. The body will be taken Tuesday morning at 7:30 over the Georgia railroad to Conyers for interment.

What the Grand Jury Says About Sheriff Mangum's Stewardship

His Administration of the Jail Is Vigorously Condemned

The following is a verbatim copy of the Grand Jury's report, filed with the Court May 1st, 1914:

"COUNTY JAIL"

"The Grand Jury, in a body, visited the County Jail, and made a thorough inspection. We found the building in an unsanitary condition.

"The cells and corridors are dirty and some of them are littered with paper, empty bottles, cans and scraps of food. We recommend immediate and frequent applications of scrub brush and such other utensils and materials as are necessary to make and keep the Jail clean. * * *

"We noticed in the laundry room a quantity of excelsior, probably twenty-five or more bales. This large supply of inflammable material constitutes a serious fire hazard and exposes the prisoners to grave danger from suffocation in the event of a fire. We recommend that this excelsior be stored elsewhere."

"STATE OF GEORGIA, COUNTY OF FULTON"—

"I, Arnold Broyles, Clerk of the Superior Court of Fulton County, Georgia, do hereby certify that foregoing is a true and correct copy of the excerpt of the grand jury presentments for the March term of 1914.

"Witness my hand and seal of Court this, the second day of May, 1914.

(Signed) "ARNOLD BROYLES,
(Seal) "Clerk of Superior Court, Fulton County, Ga."

Elect Capt. W. M. Mayo Sheriff and he will make the Jail his official residence and your county will not be subject to these shameful conditions.

Record Week of Opera Is Over And Stars Are Homeward Bound

Another record week of opera is over. Stars, chorus, stage hands, bag and baggage are gone.

Atlanta is tired and happy from a strenuous and glorious six days.

But the haunting strains of the wonderful music that has remained with Atlanta after the departure of the artists is alone enough to guarantee a substantial consideration to the Metropolitan Opera company for its return engagement next year. And, from the other side of the house, before the opera stars left they expressed warmly their love for Atlanta and their desire to come back again next year.

So there is no doubt but that grand opera will be with us again next April or thereabouts, and will be well supported.

Grand opera is now as firmly an established annual event as New Year day, Easter Sunday or Christmas. The music has been awakened here and is growing each year, as is attested to by the crowds each spring in attendance and receipts.

It is confidently predicted that grand opera in 1915 will set a new record for attendance and receipts, just as has been the case in the last two years.

In this year's attendance there was a marked characteristic, and that was substantial increase in the number of people from out of Atlanta who came here for opera. The visitors from other parts of the south have been increasing each year just as the total attendance has increased.

The 1914 opera week was from all standpoints the most satisfactory of the annual events that have been held.

EDUCATIONAL NEEDS OF NEGROES STRESSED

Large Mass Meeting Held Sunday at West Mitchell Street M. E. Church.

A large mass meeting of negroes was held Sunday afternoon in the West Mitchell Street Colored Methodist church for the betterment of the social welfare and improvement of educational facilities of the negro people of Atlanta.

The speakers included leaders of both the white and negro people of Atlanta, and a great deal of enthusiasm was manifested.

W. W. Woods White presided over the meeting. Mr. White, in an address, emphasized the importance of the church in the work of improving the moral and intellectual life of all people.

Judge W. R. Hammond pointed out that the interests of the white and negro races are common, and made it plain that the white people of Atlanta stand ready to co-operate with the negroes in every way possible to help them to improve themselves.

The need of efficient and unselfish leadership, especially in the schools, was the subject of a talk by Rev. Richard D. Stinson.

Dr. Joseph Broughton, president of the Georgia Sunday School association, told of how the Sunday school work of the state and the country is meaning more in the training of the young and the upbuilding of good citizenship than in the years that have past. He emphasized particularly the necessity of the negroes taking advantage of the Sunday schools for the proper training of their children.

Other speakers were Dr. Marion McH. Hull, W. O. Foote, of Foote & Davies; Nellie Frye, Bishop L. H. Holsey, Bishop J. S. Flipper and others.

Music was furnished by the Morehouse Glee club.

GRADY BOND ISSUE LEADERS CONFIDENT

A few weeks ago, there was also opposition from people who disapproved of the pay wards, but it is thought that this has been pretty thoroughly overcome.

The pay wards, as was pointed out by Mayor Woodward in a speech Saturday night at a mass meeting in the Fourth ward, are one of the most important features of the new institution. The present Grady has pay wards, and always has had them. Nearly every city hospital in the country has pay wards. They are generally recognized to be an essential part of such institutions.

In the plans for the greater Grady, the pay ward figures in several ways. In the first place, it is one of the interest and principal on the bond issue. This means that the new hospital can never become a burden upon the city treasury. The general principles, though, on which pay wards are incorporated into nearly every city hospital, are even more important. In this connection, they serve a double purpose.

The greater Grady, if it is built, will be built by the citizens of Atlanta. Its site will permit it to have the most modern equipment throughout. Whether there were any pay ward or not, this would be true. It will have the very best of operating and laboratory facilities. For it to have less than the best, would be to lower the dignity, not only of the institution, but of the city behind it.

Now, for this modern equipment to be at the disposal of charity patients only would be manifestly unfair and ridiculous. It would mean that the poorest man in Atlanta could get better hospital treatment than the richest. No one will dispute that the poorest man should get just as good treatment as the richest, but there is no reason why he should have better facilities. For it to have less than the best, would be to lower the dignity, not only of the institution, but of the city behind it.

Now, for this modern equipment to be at the disposal of charity patients only would be manifestly unfair and ridiculous. It would mean that the poorest man in Atlanta could get better hospital treatment than the richest. No one will dispute that the poorest man should get just as good treatment as the richest, but there is no reason why he should have better facilities. For it to have less than the best, would be to lower the dignity, not only of the institution, but of the city behind it.

In other words, an income should not disbar any citizen from participating in the advantages to be offered by the proposed hospital.

Objections Are Met.

This is one reason for the pay ward. Another has for its basis certain human failings which make the average man object to going into a wholly charitable institution. The fact that it also contained pay wards would relieve Grady of this odium. It would not be a strictly charitable hospital. When a man went there, his friends, as now, would have no way of knowing whether he was in the pay ward or charity ward. This may or may not be an important feature, according to the mental attitude of the individual. There are men and women, however, who would die, and who have died, rather than go to a purely charitable institution.

Mayor Woodward thought this feature of sufficient importance to call particular attention to it in several speeches.

The only other objection to the pay ward—that outside physicians might not be admitted to it—was disposed of two weeks ago, when the city council passed an ordinance making compulsory the admission of all physicians who have patients in the hospital. In recognition of this new procedure, the Fulton County Medical society gave the bonds its unanimous indorsement.

No bond issue perhaps has ever gone to the voters surrounded by so many safeguards. On the resolution of the council, a citizens' committee of six has been appointed to oversee the expenditure of the bond money. Every item in the total amount which is to be spent has been made public. So much is to go for this ward, so much for this dormitory, so much for this clinic. The entire plan of expenditure is distributed in such a way as to guarantee Atlanta a municipal hospital which can stand up with any in the country.

The workers for a greater Grady have tried to meet every objection. They think every objection has been met. They believe that the bonds for the new hospital will be passed by the voters of Atlanta tomorrow.

Pastor Urges Issue.

Urging Grady bonds with enthusiasm and depicting the horrible inadequacy of the present hospital facilities, Rev. Fred A. Line delivered a strong sermon at the Universalist church last night, with "The Man Next Door" as his text.

"The problems of disease and suffering and sorrow in your city," he said, "are your problems. Are you shouldering your full share of responsibility? In a few days an election will be held in this city to determine as to whether we shall, as a city, answer to the cry of need as it sounds forth from countless hearts and lives.

Belongs to Whole City.

"We have in the heart of our city an institution which belongs to the whole people—an institution established and maintained for the purpose of ministering to the sick and suffering and for resting to health and to active duties of citizenship those afflicted with disease.

"Its facilities are pitifully inadequate. Unnumbered men and women, both white and black, are denied its benefits because room and funds are lacking. A ball has gone out for a great Grady hospital—for a Grady that will, in every sense, measure up to the requirements of the Atlanta spirit and standards.

"The people of Atlanta and vicinity have paid the past week for grand opera $100,000. Culture is a fine thing. Atlanta may well pride herself upon the fact that our city leads the world in grand opera demonstrations. But surely there are things to be considered as of even more importance to our city's welfare and prosperity and growth than grand opera. There are thousands of children in Atlanta suffering for want of proper care and treatment and environment.

The Better Part.

"There are countless of our less fortunate brothers who are suffering for want of proper care and treatment. It is truly lamentable if a city that can spend $100,000 in one week for grand opera cannot make adequate provision for its needy and afflicted children. It is good to buy a season ticket to the opera if you can afford it, but it is better to promote a move that will tend to the betterment of the sick and afflicted of our community.

"On Tuesday, May 5, your Christian consideration for the man next door should prompt you to vote and talk and work for a greater Grady, and for those men who stand for worthy principles and who are in sympathy with the intellectual and spiritual needs and interests of a whole community."

Proctor Urges Bonds.

Rev. H. H. Proctor, who returned to the city Saturday after a two weeks' trip east, urged his people at both services at the First Congregational church, coloring yesterday, to support the proposed issue of bonds for the improvement of the hospital facilities of the community.

Among other things he said:

"There is a close relation between health, happiness and efficiency, and one of the best investments a city can make is in those facilities that promote the physical welfare of its people. One of the most important movements ever undertaken in Atlanta is the proposed issue of bonds to be determined at the polls next Tuesday by which better hospital facilities are to be provided for colored, as well as white people. The movement contemplates $125,000 worth of improvements for colored patients, including maternity and contagious wards, both badly needed. The very fact that the white people of the city recognize that in the good health of the colored people their own self-interest will be promoted, if for no greater reasons, will insure the carrying out of the stipulations agreed on.

"There are about 1,000 registered colored voters, and I trust every one of them will go to the polls and help roll up the required two-thirds vote for the passage of these bonds. Their issuance will prove a hardship on nobody, but mean better days ahead for the whole city."

The graduating exercises will be Monday evening, the 25th, at 6 o'clock, if the weather is suitable, on the lawn of the campus.

Monday evening from 9 o'clock the annual reception by the co-principals, Misses Gertrude and Willie Lyle, will be given, always one of the most brilliant early summer events of the state.

GOVERNOR TO ADDRESS 7TH DISTRICT MASONS

Rome, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The program is out for the Seventh District Masonic convention has been completed. The convention will assemble on Wednesday morning under the direction of Worshipful Master Max Meyerhardt. Delegates from all of the thirteen counties in the seventh district will be here to the number of several hundred. The address of welcome will be delivered by Hon. J. D. Hanks, mayor of Rome. During the two days session there will be work in the various degrees by different lodges of the district.

One of the principal features of the convention will be a public meeting at the Rome opera house, known as "ladies' night," at which addresses will be delivered by Governor John M. Slaton, Mrs. Rose Ashby, past grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star; Past Grand Master Henry Banks, of Talbotton; Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price, Hon. Barry Wright, Hon. F. W. Hixon and Hon. W. W. Bale, of Rome. The program for Thursday includes a religious service, at which short sermonettes will be preached by prominent men, and the election of officers. The meeting comes to a close with a great Masonic rally on Thursday night.

IMPROVEMENT LIKELY IN THE COTTON MARKET

New Orleans, May 3.—The cotton market had a good tone at the opening last week and Monday's prices soon advanced to 9 to 10 points over the close of the week before. This was caused by reports of late planting and heavy rain damage in the western part of the belt. After Monday, however, prices declined until at the close they were 2 to 5 points down on the new crop and 10 to 11 lower on the old. Any strength that might have been expected from the issuing of May notices on Tuesday was nullified by the fact that they were brought back by those interested in them and immediately eastern bears opened a selling campaign in July and all positions receded to new figures being posted.

General conditions seem now to point to an increase next season. The late crop doubtless will have its effect and the fact that much replanting probably must be done in Texas also will have weight. Traders generally do not see bright prospects in the new figures being posted now. Most of the leading authorities place the increase at a low percentage.

BRIDE WON IN TWO WEEKS DESERTED IN FIVE DAYS

Rome, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—A courtship of two weeks, a marriage of five days, followed by the desertion of her husband, taking with him $35, all that she and her mother had in the house, is the story told in court by Mrs. Cora Robinson Dean, of Lindale. The man in the case was Gary Dean, aged about 20 years, who came here from South Carolina. The wife and mother-in-law have sworn out warrants charging Dean with desertion and obtaining money under false pretenses. He secured the cash, claiming that he wished to have some dental work done, and left ostensibly for the office of a dentist in Rome, but failed to return.

In Memory of Pepper.

Washington, May 3.—The house held a brief memorial session today in tribute to the late Representative Irvin S. Pepper, of Iowa. Speaker Clark made the principal address.

T. E. BROWN APPOINTED BREMEN POSTMASTER

Bremen, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Thomas E. Brown, a farmer living near town, formerly principal of the Buchanan high school, and at one time county school commissioner of Haralson, has been appointed postmaster at Bremen, to take effect May 9, in place of L. P. Trimble, resigned. Mr. Trimble has held the office for seventeen years.

In the Interest of Fair Play

The undersigned, being the immediate neighbors of Mr. L. O. Wright, indignantly resent certain rumors that are being circulated by W. M. Mayo or his deputies. They have persisted in saying that Mr. Wright was going to withdraw from the race for Sheriff, and that he was running in the interest of Sheriff Mangum, notwithstanding Mr. Wright's denial, and the denial of his deputies, his friends, and everyone connected with his campaign.

Now we brand as false all these rumors, and charge Captain Mayo or his deputies with circulating these rumors when they know them to be false. We do not believe the people of this county will support any man, or set of men, for the responsible office of Sheriff, who are guilty of such deliberate misrepresentation. WE KNOW THAT MR. WRIGHT IS A HIGH-TONED GENTLEMAN, WORTHY OF ANY MAN'S BALLOT, AND IS RUNNING HIS RACE STRICTLY ON A HIGH PLANE, AND IN THE INTEREST OF NO OTHER CANDIDATE. THEREFORE, WE CHALLENGE CAPTAIN MAYO AND HIS DEPUTIES TO PROVE ANYTHING TO THE CONTRARY.

We therefore appeal to the fair-minded people of this county to put their stamp of disapproval on such methods by voting for L. O. Wright for Sheriff on May 5th.

"ATLANTA SPIRIT" ON TRIAL.

Tomorrow's election on the bond issue for Greater Grady hospital is a vital test of the "Atlanta spirit."

The materialization of Greater Grady is a life and death matter to this community.

Upon it hinges safeguarding the lives and conserving the efficiency of every man, woman and child, of both races and of all stages in life.

Grady is our one municipal hospital.

It should afford accommodations of the highest grade to every man, woman and child with the right to demand service from a municipal hospital.

Atlanta has radically outgrown the institution in its every department.

There is not bed-room or other facilities for the citizens with a right to ask them.

This means that our fortress against disease and death breaks down at one of its most vital points.

The doctors of Atlanta see this, and have indorsed Greater Grady.

Business men, property-owners, real estate men see it, and have indorsed Greater Grady.

Club women.

Organized labor.

Ministers of all denominations.

All civic and philanthropic associations.

Representative negro leaders.

Every element that makes conspicuously for progress and health in Atlanta are behind the movement for Greater Grady.

The principal and interest on the bonds for Grady will be more than cared for by the income from the pay-wards of the enlarged institution. In the end, the tax-payers will be put to no expense. The proceeds of the issue will be supervised by a commission of representative citizens.

Under these conditions, no citizen of Atlanta can afford, by apathy or opposition, to align himself with the forces of disease in Atlanta.

The "Atlanta spirit" expects every Atlantan to do his duty tomorrow.

THE WORLD FIGHTS DISEASE.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, whose department has jurisdiction over health matters as they touch other nations and cur own nation, asks congress for $100,000 to fight disease epidemics in Mexico.

Typhus fever, typhoid fever, malaria and tropical diseases generally are epidemic in Mexico.

It has been said on good authority that if it is necessary for the Americans to remain in Mexico for a considerable period, they will suffer heavy losses from communicable diseases.

Secretary McAdoo evidently is determined to do his share to avert any such catastrophe.

Health is not a matter of local concern. No nation can sit to one side and plume itself on its low death rate with disregard for other nations. No nation can violate all the health rules and expect to maintain unbroken its commercial relations with the other nations.

The demand is, first, that each nation keep its own health house in order.

The demand is, next, that each nation insist that its neighbor observe also the fundamental laws of sanitation and hygiene.

In other words, the twentieth century gospel of hygiene is that each nation must contribute its share to the maintenance of the world's health; that no nation, whether wealthy or impoverished, has the right to jeopardize the health of another nation; that the prerequisite to doing business with the big council of nations is the observance of ordinary rules for the cure and prevention of disease and conditions that lead to disease.

The reasoning was illustrated when the various big trading nations notified the port of Guayaquil, in Ecuador, South America, a few months ago, that it must clean up or get out of the international circuit of trade.

Up to that time Guayaquil had been a notorious breeder and spreader of diseases, reckless alike of its own health and the health of the nations represented by the many ships that came into its port. Now Guayaquil has hired a sanitary engineer of international reputation to come in and fit it for dealings with decent nations.

THEY TALK "ATLANTA."

One of the notable assets of grand opera week to Atlanta is that annually it sends through the south a caravan of representative southerners who proclaim the advantages of this city. The mouth-to-mouth publicity that accrues to Atlanta from the thousands of representative men and women from every southern state is of immense advantage to the city.

More effective than printed publicity is the sort contained in impressions noted by the observant individual and carried on to others by personal touch stretching over months and years.

Each year now, for five years, Atlanta has enjoyed this brand of publicity from the most representative people in the southern states.

Incidentally, more publicity and publicity on a broader scale will come to Atlanta through the meeting of the Shriners, due now in a few days.

From this point of view alone whatever energies Atlanta puts forth are more than rewarded.

NO EXCUSE FOR MALARIA.

Sir William Willcocks, the English engineer who built the Assouan dam on the Nile river in Egypt, told the National Drainage congress in Savannah, and medical bodies elsewhere, that there is no excuse for the malarial mosquito.

Sir William is right. The malarial mosquito can thrive only where drainage is imperfect. Along the Nile the mosquito that carries the infection, the anopheles variety, was abundant. With the building of the Assouan dam the swamps were cleared and the mosquitoes disappeared, and with them the malaria.

What Willcocks did in Egypt Gorgas did in Havana, for the yellow fever mosquito, and in Panama also. The malarial mosquito was likewise present in these regions, and the army engineer put it to rout along with its brother, the Stegomyia fasciata.

There is no district on earth plagued with malaria, whether Georgia or Texas or Virginia, that cannot be cleansed by the simple process of drainage.

It may be urged that the expense attached to such a process is prohibitive, and that it is cheaper to leave these vast tracts of land uninhabited.

The argument is fallacious.

Vast sections of land in every part of the world are useless because of malaria. Daily civilization is becoming more overcrowded, the demand for space and for land subject to ownership more acute.

To say that we will leave malaria-ridden land idle because of the expense of fitting it for occupancy is to say that we are willing to abandon a gold mine because there is some cost attached to fitting it for the necessary machinery.

Human courage and human initiative are not yet willing to make these concessions.

The malarial portions of the earth will be purged and brought under subjection and the job will be done within comparatively a short time.

A NEW "T. B." TREATMENT.

Cables from Paris report that Henry Spahlinger, a young Swiss biologist, has discovered a new serum treatment for tuberculosis that many experts believe to be the most effective purely medical agent yet discovered. The details of the remedy were described to the Paris Academy of Medicine. The dispatches are too meager to permit as yet of a competent opinion of the preparation.

It is to be hoped the announcement from France is not the precursor to another Friedmann fiasco. The United States, Europe for that matter, has not yet recovered from the revulsion of feeling over the manner in which disease, poverty and suffering were exploited by the young German charlatan. It is a safe assumption that while public and medical opinion will hold an open mind regarding the Spahlinger treatment, it will require stern proof of efficacy before displaying any more credulity.

If Spahlinger or any other man devises anything even remotely approaching a specific for tuberculosis he will be destined to fortune and, what is better, to one of the highest places in history. Thus far serums, vaccines and tuberculins have proved more or less a delusion, or at least to be of conjectural value. Scientific opinion of the best order is today extremely dubious regarding the curative or immunizing value of tuberculin, while some physicians hold it to positively harmful, and a great many others are skeptical regarding the virtues of allied preparations.

The one positive thing medical science does know with regard to the treatment of tuberculosis is that fresh air, judicious rest, food and a dry atmosphere are the most reliable agents. We know beyond a quibble that these factors have cured and every day are curing tuberculosis. We do not know if other measures are entitled to rank higher than as doubtful adjuncts that some fresh discovery may wholly discredit.

Until science comes bringing final witness to the efficacy of a medical specific, persons afflicted and their friends, as well as the reputable physician, should not be beguiled by florid promises and unsupported assertions.

The op'ry folk have gone away—they've read the music riddle,

"The rest of my days I hope to spend away out where everything is serenely quiet and where the trains don't give a darn which way the wind blows—away back where the complexions are tanned like leather, where there are no homebreaks that will digest chains, where grammar is obsolete, where the moving pictures are real, where the cattle graze lazily on the grassy knobs, where the hens cackle loudest, where the ham gravy is reddest, where the houn' dog barks loudest and the squirrels go scurrying through the bushes—back there where they call cartridges, 'kattidges,' and where they 'garntee' you a good, quiet time."

"Being a Boy Nowadays."

In an article on poor boys nowadays, The Kansas City Star quotes Mrs. Tom Thompson as follows:

"They find that they were born neither in a log cabin nor a sod house, but too often, indeed, under the glare of an electric light. They were compelled to wash their neck and ears, brush their teeth, shine their shoes, from the earliest days of their recollection. They got no education by the light of a pine knot. They never had to eat corn bread and 'taters' when they lived. They even never had new 'pants' made out of daddy's old ones. They never got to split any rails, nor trap any 'coons. Shucks! Everything that's any good happened a long time ago. Let's go and get up a home talent show. Come on!"

The Battle-Bird.

When you hear the eagle scream
It ain't because he's hit;
He hears them fife-an'-drums beatin'
An' he wants to fight a bit!

His feathers shine along the line
When the storm's voice is heard;
In storm or shine he feels fine—
The eagle battle-bird!

The Billville Banner.

Some o' these fine days we're going to get that Metropolitan Opera company to come to Billville, if it's only for a fish frolic. There's no fear that they will put the mockingbirds out of business, for there are thousands of 'em singin' in the blossoms and making day and night a thrilling dream of music; but we want a day with the singers who send your soul to heaven before its time, iffen bring it back to earth to wonder if the stars can match their music.

HOME SWEET HOME

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "All Good Gifts Abroad."

There are two kinds of homes in this country. There is the home to which we go every evening to groan over the month's bills, cuss the furnace, complain about the toughness of the meat at dinner time and make plans for escaping to the country some other abode of joy. And there is "Home, Sweet Home."

Most of us love our homes, but conceal the fact with Spartan stoicism. But we all love our Home, Sweet Home. It is the home which we have lost or mislaid, and on it we pour out all our sentiment and yearning.

"Home, Sweet Home" is either a thousand miles or twenty years away. It usually isn't much of a home to begin with, but after it recedes into the distance its owner begins to make improvements in it. He takes the draughts, splintery floors and lazy heating stove out of it, does away with the leaky roof and the cellar which has ambition to become a mill pond in the spring and dismisses the loose-and flappy wall-paper from his mind. Then he begins to add wings, porticoes, boudoirs, galleries, drawing rooms, flying buttresses and conservatories to it. He runs a mental vacuum cleaner through it, taking out all the harsh words and quarrels which have taken place during former times and fills it full of family love, happiness, hope, affection and industry. When all this is done, he plants the Garden of Eden around it, paints it in luminous colors and then stands back and admires his work. After he has looked at it a while he breaks down and cries because the place in which he is now living has only fourteen rooms and silver-plated plumbing.

John Howard Payne owned the first real Home Sweet Home. It was the only home he had, and he talked about it so much that every one began acquiring them. It is a great pleasure to have a Home Sweet Home, but it is a little hard on the mere home. If we could only be half as fond of our homes as we are of them later when they become our Home Sweet Homes, we would enjoy life more and our families might possibly enjoy us.

Unspecialized Experience
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Experience is the price of Success—to a large degree. So the Employer asks for and demands workers who are equipped with Experience. But where the experience has so been specialized and accumulated as not to serve his purpose, the employer cares not for Experience.

Unspecialized Experience is doing more to encourage idleness and failure than almost all other agents of destruction massed together.

For of what value is Experience to you if you can't hitch it to where it is drawing something—to somewhere? Every time you think or make a movement you accumulate experience—but if it isn't to a purpose, it becomes Unspecialized and useless. Therefore, orderly thinking—systematically thinking and converting reflection and to results the processes of your mind—that is travel toward Success.

Don't take a job merely because it's a job. It is bound to give you Experience, but it may be experience that you may reject or, that may undo the valuable experience you may already have. Specialize your Experience—Make every hour of thinking and action in work to contribute to a large Experience—an Experience of Experiences both connected and useful.

"Salute Old Glory."

The Stars and Stripes are passing by,
Her folds unfurl against the sky,
There is no flag can wave so high—
Salute Old Glory!
Stand with your cap within your hand,
Once is no flag so sweet and grand,
Her colors guard our Native land—
Salute Old Glory!

Our fathers said that it might wave,
Their blood we hope they freely gave,
Earth never found a flag more brave!
Salute Old Glory!
Let men proclaim its worth today,
Our banner's in the world to stay;
Give all her Stars the Right of Way—
Salute Old Glory!

Let those who love its stars of white,
Its nest of blue, its stars of night,
Its red, whose blood embodies might,
Salute Old Glory!
Let all the Nations fall in line
Salute! Tis friendship's countersign!
Strike colors here at freedom's shrine—
Salute Old Glory!

The Stars and Stripes are passing by
Salute her now, or answer why;
The Eagle screams from out the sky:
"Salute Old Glory!"
Let those refuse who dare to pay
The debt of that takes flags away:
Our call is that you must obey!
Salute Old Glory!
—OLIVER ALLSTORM.

The Romany Lass.

Then pour the red wine, and fill up your glass,
We'll drink to the health of the Romany lass,
There she goes dancing, bare feet a-glancing,
Little brown feet on the grass!

Quick the lads gather like flies to the honey,
Who will deny they've the worth of their money?
Gold's none too good for the price of her glances,
The sight of her pretty bare feet as she dances!

Now it's: "You shall cross water,
And you shall have luck,
You'll win, what you're after
If only you've pluck?
Yours is the ship for a
Troublesome sea—"
The lady is false, sir,
You'd better take me!"

Up fly the windows, good dames lean to scold her,
Little she heeds, only chaffing the holder,
Little she cares for the hearts she has broken,
Smiles are for sale at the price of a token—
So she goes dancing, flare feet a-glancing,
Little brown feet on the grass!

Only a gypsy—the graybeards despise her,
Toss her a coin when there's no one the wiser;
Only a gypsy—yet fill up your glass,
We'll drink to the health of the Romany lass!
There she goes dancing, bare feet a-glancing,
Little brown feet on the grass!
—Gertrude Knevels, in The New York Sun.

The Robin.

When first the willow catkins show,
And water sims you with veil
Of golden glory, and the flow
Of maple sap in trough or pail
With merry drip and tinkles
The pulses leap, the fancies throng,
Then robin comes at dawn and wakes
And gladdens all the world with song;
High on the cherry tree he tunes
His voice to many a winsome lay,
Or in the long, sweet afternoons
Till sunset sings his soul away.
Best bird, and wise, no idle praise
Nor foolish blame disturbs his rest;
Content he weaves divinest lays
Or toils at humble love's behest.
We crown him laureate of our woods,
We welcome his returning wings,
And dream of joy's beatitudes
Whene'er the vernal robin sings.
—Benjamin S. Parker.

DAILY GRIST from the STATE'S POLITICAL GRIND

DIRECT DOUBLE DEALING CHARGED TO HARDWICK BY AUGUSTA MAN

Augusta, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The political turmoil in Richmond county right now turns not to county, city or state politics, but to the United States senatorial race in that E. B. Pilcher, superintendent of the county home, who was for seventeen years superintendent of mails in Augusta, and was kicked out of the Augusta postoffice by the republicans, told today "how the postoffice deal was put over" by Congressman Tom Hardwick.

A great many of Mr. Pilcher's friends—and they, through his family connection all over the district, are no few—have been expecting this "expose" for a week. It came today, and that there will be an after-clap is a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Hardwick responded, even up to Friday afternoon of last week, that he had not fully made up his mind to whom he would give the Augusta postoffice. Mr. Pilcher, in his public declaration, says the congressman told him so. Now, Mr. Pilcher charges Mr. Hardwick did not; had fully made up his mind, and really knew and had announced privately, as long ago as ten months.

Mr. Pilcher charges Mr. Hardwick with double dealing in the postoffice, but with handing it out to those to whom Mr. Hardwick "is bought and sold"—to "two or three men in Augusta." While Mr. Pilcher does not say so in so many words, he makes it so plain in his letter that it can't be mistaken that he is driving at certain of the bosses of that faction of Augusta politics against whom such a relentless and bitter fight has been waged the past five or six years—the "balance of power," but low down, as Mr. Pilcher says. It is known that that faction put Colonel John W. Clark in the sheriff's office, and has kept him there the past twelve years, but refused to keep him there any longer; that they were called upon to "give somebody else a showing," and that Colonel Clark has not been so much power among them as somebody has been making it appear in years gone by.

However that may be, Mr. Pilcher charges Congressman Tom Hardwick, now a senatorial candidate, with direct double dealing with Pilcher and Pilcher's friends, asserting in positive terms that Mr. Hardwick ten months ago promised the postoffice, and not long ago who would get the postoffice.

It is known that Colonel John Clark has been pretty close to Senator Hoke Smith for years and that Colonel Clark has been to Washington on the postoffice matter two or three times—once just about ten months ago. Moreover, it is known that Colonel Clark let it be taken as distinctly understood by certain of his friends as long as three or four weeks ago that he was going to be postmaster, and that he was arranging his affairs, as long as three or four weeks ago—maybe longer—to get into the Augusta postoffice. As a matter of fact, certain county politics have been framing along that direct line almost if not quite that long, and some of that political maneuvering has had to do with Colonel Clark's office.

Pretty near all of what Mr. Pilcher says in his letter is a refutation of what the public has all along been given to believe in the matter of the Augusta postoffice appointment, and—well, the Pilcher and the Pilcher family influence in the tenth congressional district is no mean one, which may mean in the end that Candidate Hardwick might find that the flinging over of Candidate Pilcher in the little postmastership now could prove a political boomerang that it is floating through the air with a possible tendency to turn around the corner before it stops and hit him in the face.

TENDERS OF SUPPORT STILL POURING IN ON JUDGE THOMAS

Valdosta, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Many new tenders of support, backed by strong requests for him to make the race for governor, have come to Judge W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta, this week. So far, however, he remains undecided. He appreciates fully the interest his friends in south Georgia, as well as in other sections of the state, are taking in his prospective candidacy, but, as he has stated from the first, it is a matter which he believes should be carefully considered after thorough investigation of conditions.

A significant fact in connection with the efforts to bring out Judge Thomas is the almost unanimous support of the newspapers in south Georgia. Expressions from a vast majority of them during the past two weeks have been of the most cordial character.

Every day makes it more apparent that if he decides to run, he will enter the race with a showing far ahead of any other candidate in this section at least. Dr. Hardman, Mr. Anderson and Judge Ned Harris, if Judge Thomas should not announce, what the woman would "mix things up," and so far as this section is concerned, the gubernatorial race would be anybody's race.

Judge Thomas' friends believe he will run, however, and hope to have an announcement from him within a short while.

FRIENDS DO NOT EXPECT LEE TO ENTER RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Rome, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Romans who are in close touch with the political situation do not believe that Congressman Gordon Lee will make the race for governor. While rumors that he would do so at this time have been current for the past few weeks, the congressman has not made known his intention to any of his close political friends and advisers here.

They believe, therefore, that he will seek another term in congress. Should he decide upon the latter course, he will probably have no opposition. Judge Price Edwards and other prominent men in the seventh congressional district who have had the matter under consideration have announced that they will not oppose Mr. Lee. Of course, should Mr. Lee not seek re-election, there will be a different story to tell, with "favorite sons" from practically every county in the district at least tentatively in the race.

Another thing that leads politicians to think that Lee will not seek to succeed Governor Slaton is the prospective candidacy of William J. Harris, of Cedartown. Mr. Harris' local friends expect him in the city during the next few days, and confidently expect his formal announcement to appear after his visit to Georgia.

It is not believed that both Lee and Harris would be in the race, for that they would oppose each other, and Mr. Harris' plans are said to be much more definite than those of Mr. Lee.

LIVELY CONTESTS IN PROSPECT FOR CHATHAM COUNTY OFFICES

Savannah, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Prospects for a lively contest over several Chatham county offices at the primary in the summer were increased this week when it became known that an opposition slate is being prepared.

The officers who will offer for re-election at the approaching primary are: Receiver of Tax Returns Marcus S. Baker, Tax Collector T. F. Thomson, Sheriff Merritt W. Dixon, County Treasurer R. J. Stewart and Clerk of the Superior Court William L. Grayson. The terms of the other county officers do not expire for two years yet.

It is practically certain that at least four of these will have opposition. Arnold Seyden, former warden of the county jail, will offer for sheriff against Colonel Dixon. It is expected. Seyden was deposed as warden when Dixon became sheriff. The friends of E. J. Kieffer, Sr., say he will get in the race against Marcus S. Baker for the office of receiver of tax returns. Thomas Halligan and others are mentioned as candidates against Colonel Grayson for the superior court clerkship. County Treasurer Stewart is almost certain to have at least one opponent.

MANGHAM NAMED STATE SENATOR IN HARALSON COUNTY PRIMARY

Bremen, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The Haralson county primary, held Saturday, resulted in the nomination of J. J. Mangham for state senator, over his two opponents, Dr. B. F. Williams and P. E. Baxley, by a majority of 295.

G. B. Richards defeated R. H. Parker for sheriff; J. S. Edwards was nominated for the legislature; R. C. Holcombe for clerk of court; J. R. Rush for tax collector; D. C. Chandler for tax receiver; W. S. Walker for treasurer; W. L. Newton, surveyor; Jack Brooks, coroner.

A heavy vote was polled throughout the county.

Wants It to Stand.

Editor Constitution: I desire to comment your stand in opposition to a change of the rules adopted by the democratic executive committee.

If they were good three weeks ago they certainly should be now.

The county unit plan has been recognized for many years and should stand.

A Man Is as Old as He Feels.

From The Liverpool Daily Post.)

The well known saying "A man is as old as he feels, a woman as old as she looks," is seemingly a pure Liverpudlian, and legal at that. During the trial of a breach of promise case there arose some argument as to the desirability of a man of 49 marrying a girl of 20. Whereupon the judge delivered the famous opinion that he even went better, for, when counsel for the defense argued that the lady had had a lucky escape from marrying such a man as his client, the learned judge observed: "What the woman loses is the man she thinks him to be."

WAR SPIRIT TAKES NAP IN CONGRESS

Unless Something Breaks in Mexico, House and Senate Consider Subjects Less Spectacular Than Talk of Invasion.

Washington, May 3.—The war spirit is slumbering in congress, and unless there are unlocked-for developments south of the Rio Grande during the present week both senate and house will turn attention to subjects less spectacular than talk of invasion and predictions of American conquest.

The senate promises to be busy during the week with debate on the bill to repeal the tolls exemption clause of the Panama canal act. The house is expected to dispose of the naval appropriation bill, provide in it for two battleships as the administration has requested, pass the diplomatic and consular bill and possibly reach the anti-trust bill. The "big" and "little" navy men will have their inning tomorrow, and references to the Mexican situation may lend point to the remarks.

The tolls debate in the senate probably will call forth more oratorical display and feeling, for the senate is divided on the question of repeal, and most senators have decided views on the subject.

In the meantime both houses of congress will keep a close watch on the developments of Mexico. Bulletins with the latest news from the army and navy, from the mediators sitting here and from every quarter that is dealing with Mexico, are posted in prominent places in both wings of the capitol.

Anti-Trust Measure.

While the house may get its anti-trust bill during the week the senate interstate commerce committee will not report the drastic bill on the same subject drafted by a subcommittee and its appearance is not expected until the bills deadline is closed.

The senate foreign relations committee will take up for consideration Wednesday the convention of the conference of safety for life at sea held recently in London. Opposition to the ratification of the convention by the senate already has developed, and the foreign relations committee may debate its provisions for several days.

While the senate committee is on the convention, the house merchant and marine committee will continue its consideration of the seaman's bill, passed by the senate. The committee probably will amend the bill to conform to the London convention. The senate bill would require every vessel to carry two able seamen with three years' experience on deck at sea for every lifeboat, while the convention provides for three "lifeboat men" for every lifeboat, but permit these men to be drawn from other parts of the crew, the other members of the crew, with requirements for examination and certification of fitness to man lifeboats.

Members of the house committee said to believe the provisions of the seaman's bill would necessitate a new crew increase on every vessel of from 25 to 50 per cent.

Coast Guard Measure.

The house interstate commerce committee, ready to take up the Lever capitalization control bill, may report this week the coast guard bill. The bill would amalgamate the revenue cutter and lighthouse services.

The committee is deferring action on the Henry bill for congressional investigation of the cotton and grain exchanges, pending the agriculture committee's hearings on the latter bill, aimed against future transactions and for grain standardization.

The general dam bill, to regulate the water power rights on all navigable streams, is being pushed for consideration in the house, while no other water power bill, affecting all such rights on the entire public domain, hearings are being held by the house public lands committee. Secretary Lane and other administration supporters of the measure are expected to testify this week.

TROUP MERCHANTS PLAN SUMMER JUBILEE WEEK

LaGrange, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—LaGrange and Troup county will cooperate in advertising local resources this summer. With LaGrange as the central point, citizens of every locality in the county will join forces in attracting large crowds. The merchants of LaGrange have organized, and will work through a committee of four men and the committee will have a sufficient financial backing.

There will be a week of fun and business during the first part of August in LaGrange. This will be termed the midsummer jubilee week, and every day will be filled with speaking, musical programs, baseball games and automobile parades. There will be allegorical floats, spectacular fireworks displays and every conceivable kind of entertainment.

Cucumbers From Quitman.

Quitman, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Cucumbers were on the local market yesterday, grown by James Tyson, on the Avera farm, adjoining the city. This is a farm bought and subdivided by the Brooks County Land company last fall. A large area was planted in vegetables. General shipping begins next week.

Attractive Deferred Payments Permit Your Buying a Diamond without Feeling the Outlay

You can buy a diamond here by paying only one-fifth cash. The balance, plus six per cent simple interest, can be settled in ten equal monthly payments.

All diamonds are marked in plain English with lowest net cash price. The six per cent interest is the difference between cash and long time credit.

It would not be fair to sell to the cash buyer at the price given to customers taking eight to ten months.

This plan is absolutely fair, for you know exactly what a stone will cost you on either basis and can decide for yourself which suits your requirements best.

Selections sent prepaid for inspection.

Net prices and full particulars given in our diamond booklet and 160-page catalogue. Write or call for these books.

Shriners of Memphis Raise Big Fund for Atlanta Trip

O. K. HOUCK.

Memphis, Tenn., May 3.—(Special.)—O. K. Houck, chief rabban and official money-getter of Al Chymia Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of Memphis, Tenn., has just wound up a brief but brilliant campaign for Al Chymia that will insure an invasion of Atlanta in force next month. Noble Houck was the big noise at Dallas last year when Memphis tried to entrap the Shriners, and yielded gracefully to the entente cordiale of Adair's superior arguments in favor of Atlanta.

Determined to make a showing at Atlanta and has never let down before at an imperial council meeting, Houck was put on the job, and in seven days, with the help of enthusiastic Shriners, broke all records. A class of 106 crossed the sands Tuesday night, and a husky bunch was left over for another ceremonial before the Atlanta pilgrimage. Contributions also poured in on Houck, so that he was enabled to report duty nobly performed.

Al Chymia, the camel who has done duty at many imperial council meetings, is doing nicely, a band of fifty-two pieces is making the nights melodious and the patrol of thirty-two men are almost nightly being put through their paces, and from all appearances Al Chymia live wires will be in plentiful evidence at Atlanta when the clans gather.

Rabbi David Marx Preaches To Unitarians of Atlanta

"Holiness Unto the Lord" was the subject of the address of Rabbi David Marx to the Unitarian church Sunday morning, to the Atlanta Unitarians, where he brought out the thought that holiness unto the Lord and love of one's fellowman is the principle of true religion regardless of one's individual creed.

In his opening remarks Rabbi Marx called attention to the words of the prophet Jeremiah to the children of Israel in captivity, advising them that they seek the welfare of the city in which they were held captive inasmuch as in the peace of that city their own peace was involved.

He stressed the importance of individual and civic holiness.

The spirit of all religion is expressed, he said, in these words:

"Be ye holy unto the Lord and love your fellowman."

He pointed out that there is a physical holiness like that we attribute to places and certain days. The church is holy because it is used for holy purposes. Sunday is holy because it is set aside to the worship of God.

But more important, he said, is the spiritual holiness, which marks a man's relationship to God. The reason for eternal reward, declared, is neither present nor future reward. Man cannot contemplate with satisfaction the separation from God from the many friends with whom he associates here.

This holiness is rather the essential part of every true man, the divine spark within him.

What Atlanta needs, declared Rabbi Marx, is not only clean streets, but more civic holiness; for men to be willing to work together in accordance with the religious principle of being holy and loving one's fellowman.

VALDOSTA TO BE HOST TO CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Valdosta, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The 47th annual convention of the Christian churches in Georgia will convene in this city Tuesday morning, continuing through Thursday. Prominent leaders in the Christian denomination as well as many laymen in Georgia and throughout the United States, will attend the convention. It is expected that 150 delegates from the churches in this state will be here, and leading representatives of the different national church bodies will take part.

Among the prominent visitors who will attend are Rev. Allan B. Moore, pastor of Christian church at Savannah, retiring president of the convention; Rev. Stanley R. Grubbs, pastor of Athens Christian church, the incoming president; National Field Secretary of Sunday Schools Robert M. Hopkins, of Cincinnati; President of Foreign Missionary Society A. McLean; National Secretary of the Ministerial Relief Board W. R. Warren; National Secretary of Church Extension Board G. W. Muckey; National Secretary of American Christian Missionary Society Grant K. Lewis. A special musical program for the convention is being arranged by George Sherman, director of the local church choir. Prof. W. E. M. Hackleman, of Indianapolis, well known soloist and leader, will have general charge of the musical program. The sessions of the convention will be held at the First Christian church, and Dr. Allen Wilson, pastor, will be host for the convention.

NEW CHURCH ENDOWED BY GIFT OF FARM LAND

Athens, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The dedication of Bethany church, fourteen miles from Athens toward Monroe, in Oconee county, occurred today, Rev. G. A. Nunnally, of Rome, formerly president of Shorter college and of Mercer university, preaching the dedicatory sermon. Forty-five years ago, almost to the day, he preached the dedicatory sermon for the frame building which the handsome new brick structure, just completed, now succeeds.

This church is unique. It is the gift of J. T. Carithers, of this city, and his two brothers, R. L. and H. A. Carithers, of Winder, in memory of their parents, who are buried in the cemetery there. With the church the Carithers brothers gave 165 acres of the best farming land near by, the yield of this farm to keep the cemetery and the repairs on the building.

Aviator at Elberton.

Elberton, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Through the generosity of the business men of Elberton, Aviator Beach made two flights here yesterday in his flying machine, one at 12 and the other at 3 o'clock. A conservative estimate places the crowd in town at 12,000. All three railroads ran excursions, giving reduced rates. The crowd, the largest Elberton ever entertained, was most orderly and good natured.

BOYS CORN CLUBS BOOM IN SOUTHERN COUNTIES

Tifton, Ga., May 3.—C. V. Cunningham, whose headquarters are at Tifton, and who has 28 corn club counties in his district, reports a great increase in the number of boys' corn clubs.

Last year there were less than 2,000 boys' corn clubs in his district and this year the total number is 2,589.

Mr. Cunningham reports a great revival of interest among the boys and says that their crops are in fine shape, much care having been given to the preparation of the soil and planting. The crops are now up and are being worked out.

Appling is the leading county in the district with 335 boys' corn clubs. Jeff Davis is second with 188 and Berrien a close third with 179. The smallest number of clubs is in McIntosh county, which was first organized this year, and has twelve.

Summerford-Little.

Americus, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—A beautiful event was the wedding on Thursday evening of Miss Eula Mae Summerford, of Leslie, and Mr. Charles Davis Little, of Rome, Ga., which occurred at the Baptist church in Leslie.

After the ceremony an elaborate reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Summerford.

Mr. and Mrs. Little left for Atlanta, going afterwards to their home in Rome.

YEGGS SECURE $800 FROM SAFE IN MACON

Woman Is Believed to Have Taken Part in Robbery of Kress Co.

Macon, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Burglars, believed to have been a man and a woman, entered the store of the S. H. Kress company here some time between 11 o'clock Saturday night and 4 o'clock this afternoon and took $800 from their iron safe. The bottom was torn completely out of the safe, tools with which the job was accomplished being secured from the basement of the building.

Manager B. W. Culver closed the store at 11 o'clock Saturday night, and did not return until 4 o'clock this afternoon. He found that the safe had been dragged from the office and located on a balcony at the rear of the store to the stairway, where it had been torn to pieces. At a basement window, where the robber secured ingress to the building, were found a number of empty money sacks and a woman's handkerchief.

EDWARDS IS NOMINATED IN HARALSON PRIMARY

Buchanan, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—The non-partisan white primary held in Haralson county yesterday passed off very quietly. In the early morning it looked as if a very light vote would be polled, caused by the beautiful weather and from the fact that the farmers in this county are considerably behind with their farm work.

About 1,175 votes were cast, the largest vote being cast for the candidates for tax receiver. J. J. Mangham, of Bremen, was nominated over two opponents, R. F. Williams and F. E. Baxley, by a plurality of 93. J. B. Edwards received the nomination for representative over his closest opponent, J. R. Dodson, by a plurality of about 375.

Following is the number of votes received by the candidates: For state senator, J. J. Mangham, 632; B. F. Williams, 549. For representative, 508. For representative, J. B. Edwards, 928, A. R. Dodson, 448. For sheriff, J. W. Whitman, 498. For sheriff, G. B. Richards, 842; J. W. Legrand, 392; R. H. Parker, 619; Chapman, 50.

R. C. Holcombe was nominated for clerk without opposition. D. C. Chambers was nominated for tax receiver over three opponents, his plurality being 89. S. Bush received the nomination for tax collector, winning over his closest opponent by 161. W. C. Walker was nominated for treasurer; W. T. Newton, surveyor, and Jack Brooks, coroner.

Directly after the results of the election became known, leaders of the progressive party in this county announced that a meeting of this party would be called in a few days for the purpose of putting a full ticket in the field against the non-partisan nominees.

SHOWERS PREDICTED FOR PRESENT WEEK

Washington, May 3.—Showers over the first half of the week over most of the country from the Mississippi to the Atlantic, with temperatures above the seasonable average, and showers and cloudiness in the far west the last part of the week, were forecast by the weather bureau tonight.

Directly after the rains the temperature will average above the normal generally in the eastern and southern states and the great central valleys," said the bulletin. "The precipitation during the week will be local but fairly well distributed over the great central valleys, the region of the great lakes and the eastern and southern states.

"An area of low barometric pressure that now covers the plains states will reach the Atlantic states Tuesday or Wednesday; this depression will be attended by showers the first half of the week over much of the country from the Mississippi valley to the Atlantic coast and in the gulf states.

"Another disturbance in the far west Wednesday or Thursday will prevail over the middle west near the close of the week."

INCREASE OF MILLION IN LOWNDES CO. TAXES

Valdosta, Ga., May 2.—(Special.)—Estimates from the returns of taxes made this year indicate that Lowndes county tax values for 1914 will show an increase of a million dollars over 1913. The total values will probably go above ten million dollars, as indicated by the returns to the tax receiver. The valuations will likely be materially increased after the board of assessors have completed a canvass of the returns. As required by law, Tax Receiver Bacon and his books close on May 1. Many property owners failed to make return of their taxes within the required time and all who failed to do so will be double-taxed, as required by the new law effective this year. The county board of assessors, composed of W. A. Dowling, Cecil Brown and B. S. Richardson, will hold their first meeting to take up the work of equalization, on May 10.

LAGRANGE WILL OPEN M'LENDON PARK TODAY

LaGrange, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The formal opening of the McLendon park will be held tomorrow and, in celebration, there will be a ball, which will be the largest and most interesting social event for this city this year.

There will be at least twenty visiting girls and as many young men from adjoining towns, and this contingent will be combined with about fifty of the local people.

Music for this occasion will be furnished by Wurm's orchestra, of Atlanta, and dancing will be continued from 9 o'clock in the evening until the spirited cock ushers in the cool gray of dawn.

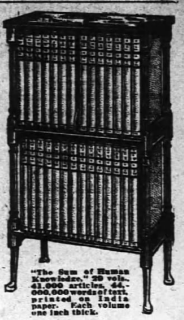
"THE SERVICE PAINT STORE"

31 South Broad Street

For a short time you can still purchase the largest, most useful and most authoritative collection of up-to-date knowledge that has ever been issued in one work, at prices out of all proportion to the intrinsic value of its contents, and far less than you would pay for ordinary books in the book stores. Never before has it been possible to buy such a work for so little money.



"The Sum of Human Knowledge," 29 volumes, 41,000 articles, 44,000,000 words of text, printed on India paper. Each volume one inch thick.

It is, in fact, such a fine book that 60,000 people who have bought and paid for it keep telling us that it is a fine book, and all that we have said it was. In many cases they have acknowledged that what they have learned from it was worth more to them than it cost.

Every person of intelligence, any one who is ambitious to get on in the world, every head of a family—all, in fact, who appreciate sound learning and who like to own well printed and handsomely bound books should give heed to this opportunity and investigate it before the present low prices are advanced on May 28th.

The Book That "Corners" All Human Knowledge

THE man who owns a set of this wonderful work of all human knowledge—the new Encyclopaedia Britannica—"the world put into a book"—may be said, in a very real sense, to have a "corner" on the knowledge of mankind, for if every other set of this work were destroyed it would be possible for him to reconstruct the human story from its 30,000 pages and 44,000,000 words of text.

Takes Up Very Little Space

This great repository of universal information is printed on thin but strong and opaque India paper—and is therefore very compact, so that in spite of the enormous quantity of reading matter the volumes are easy to consult, easy to handle, and very convenient to read merely for the sake of reading.

A Book Built for Service

Where uncertainty exists it supplies a true standard of judgment; it corrects errors of fact. Its service in this respect is unique and is universally acknowledged.

This is but one kind of service of the Britannica to the man with many books. Whether your reading be on history, on travel, on nature, on biography, on science, on religion, on economics, on exploration, on sociology, law, or medicine, the Britannica can help you by supplying you with up-to-date information, and in great detail. No matter what your special interest, it is dealt with in the Britannica from an original point of view.

It Contains Something About Everything

It is not only the largest work of the kind, but it is the only work that deals adequately with the multifarious activities of the modern world. It contains something about absolutely everything—from the most abstruse speculations of philosophy to the manufacture of paper or the causes of the revolution in Mexico.

The Britannica contains material which you cannot find in other books, though your library be ever so large.

Supersedes All Other Works

No matter how many or what other books you may have, no matter what or how many other works of reference your library may contain, this work supersedes and displaces them all.

It is greater in authority greater in comprehensiveness more thorough in treatment more convenient in use more attractive in "get-up"

It is more recent in its information written by more contributors more interesting to read better and more thoroughly made than any other work of the kind. Yet the ease with which it may be paid for has brought it within the reach of the possessor of even the most modest income.

$5.00 Down Brings the Complete Set

You can get the whole set—29 magnificent volumes, with a bookcase—if you order at once, for a first payment of only $5.00, and you can pay the balance in almost any way you wish. We will make arrangements for you to pay up in 12 months or in 8 or in 4 months if you find it inconvenient to pay cash. Or, you may pay as little as $5.00 a month.

$1,500,000 to Edit and Write It

More than a million and a half ($1,500,000) was expended merely to edit and write and illustrate and index the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, and make the maps and plates. The whole of its vast contents—41,000 articles, 44,000,000 words of text—was written and put into type, printed and bound and then sent to subscribers as one complete book.

The Reason for the Low Price

Because of this enormous literary expenditure and the much greater amount spent for manufacturing and publishing expenses, the publishers realized that the only way to recover the investment and make any profit was to offer the work at very low prices and on liberal terms, so as to attract a great many buyers quickly.

More than 60,000 sets have now been distributed at the low prices. It is the most successful book of our time, and the most desirable.

Our Stock Will Soon Be Exhausted

We have on hand only enough stock to fill orders received immediately. Again and again the Britannica has been put on the press and order after order has been given to paper-makers, leather-sellers and binders, to keep supply up to demand. Now that the price is so soon to be increased the demand is growing faster and faster. In a very short time all new applications will have to go on a waiting list.

A Large Prospectus—Free

You should not miss this opportunity to investigate this altogether original, largest, newest, fullest, most readable work of universal knowledge before this introductory sale is closed and the prices raised.

The prospectus, itself a piece of literature worth your careful perusal, will be sent you free, together with full particulars of prices, payments, bindings, bookcases, etc., free upon application.

GEN. DANIEL E. SICKLES ANSWERS LAST CALL

Last of Gettysburg Commanders—Killed Barton Key for Ruining Mrs. Sickles.

New York, May 3.—General Daniel E. Sickles died at his home shortly after 9 o'clock tonight. His wife was at his bedside at the end.

Last of Great Commanders.

General Daniel Edgar Sickles was the last of the great commanders who fought the battle of Gettysburg. For a decade he was a fighter by profession—all his life he was a fighter by nature.

The gruff old warrior, with one leg shot away in battle, his massive head resembling Bismarck's, was a picturesque figure as he hobbled along on crutches during the last half century of his turbulent life.

His indomitable fighting spirit remained to the last. Born in New York city in 1825, Sickles, at the age of 21, fought the Whigs as a Democrat in the New York legislature. At 23, he displayed his fighting spirit as corporation attorney of New York. He was he who secured for his city its great Central park. At this time his military career began as major of the twelfth regiment, national guard, New York.

Before he was 32 years old, Major Sickles had served as secretary of legation at London under Minister James Buchanan; he had won a state senatorship through a bitter campaign; and he was seated in the thirty-fifth congress at Washington.

It was at this time that an event occurred which became the sensation of the day. Sickles had begun his second term as congressman in 1859 when the national capital was stirred by the news that the young representative from New York had shot and killed Philip Barton Key, the United States district attorney for the District of Columbia. Sickles declared that Key had made improper advances to Mrs. Theresa Bagioli, daughter of an Italian music teacher. The trial lasted 20 days, ending in the acquittal of Sickles on the ground of "unwritten law." His fame took his erring wife back.

"I am not aware of any statute or code of morals," said Sickles to his jurities, "which makes it infamous to forgive a woman. I can now see in the almost universal denunciation with which she is followed to my threshold. The misery and peril from which I have rescued the mother of my daughter. I shall strive to prove to all that an erring wife and mother may be forgiven and redeemed."

She Died of Broken Heart.

Mrs. Sickles died of a broken heart a few years later.

At the outbreak of the civil war, the young fighting politician, then 36 years old, went to Lincoln to offer his services.

"You have been a leader in New York democratic politics," said the president. "If you keep your end up at that game surely you'll do to take command of men in the field. Raise four regiments and you shall be brigadier-general in command."

Sickles raised the famous Excelsior brigade in New York, taking command of one of its regiments as colonel. Lincoln kept his word and in 1861 raised him to brigadier-general. His fighting spirit early won him his spurs. On the peninsula and at Antietam he distinguished himself as a soldier and leader, at Chancellorsville he led a division. At Gettysburg he led the third corps, lost a leg, and became a national hero. At 27 years of age, he had risen from a colonel to major-general of volunteers.

After the war his fighting spirit led him in to the diplomatic army, and he became first brigadier and then major-general. He continued active service until 1869, when he was appointed minister to Spain by President Grant.

At the court of Spain, Sickles' vigorous personality made him a dominating figure. Four years of brilliant diplomacy brought him the epithet of "The Yankee King of Spain." Here he contracted his second marriage, with the beautiful and distinguished Senorita Creagh. This romance was followed by estrangement which was to last more than a quarter century. In addition to this domestic trouble, came his interference in the marriage plans of his daughter took a penniless Spanish nobleman. Father and daughter separated in bitterness, the latter to return to the United States to die without reconciliation.

Returning alone to New York, General Sickles again entered politics. He served as sheriff of New York and at 67 he was re-elected to congress.

General Sickles' life drew to a close with frequent romantic situations. He faced bankruptcy and proceedings in his last years, though he had early in life received a large share of his fathers $3,000,000 estate, but his estranged wife and son came to his aid on several occasions.

His last days were spent at 23 Fifth avenue, New York, surrounded by war relics and attended by his faithful negro servant.

EMBARGO ON ARMS IN STRIKE REGION

U. S. Troops to Confiscate All Arms and Ammunition. Major Holbrook Orders All the Saloons Closed.

Trinidad, Colo., May 3.—Major W. J. Holbrook, in command of federal troops in Colorado, today placed an embargo on the importation of arms or ammunition into the state. He announced that any arms shipped in violation of the order would be confiscated. The order applies to any arms and ammunition for the use of any person for any purpose whatever, except for the use of federal troops.

Major Holbrook sent a letter to Mayor W. P. Dunlavy, directing him to keep the Trinidad saloons closed until further orders.

Major Holbrook announced that tomorrow, which is payday for the mining companies and the strikers, he would provide troopers as guards, and would not permit either the operators or the union to have armed men on duty when the men are paid off. The soldiers will accompany the paying officers to the several camps.

Coroner B. B. Sipe today received a telegram from John Schwager, Austro-Hungarian consul in Denver, asking him for a list of all subjects of Austria-Hungary killed in strike battles. The coroner announced that the inquest over the men killed in the Forbes battle would be held early in the week.

Further negotiations regarding the disarmament of strikers tonight were believed to be in abeyance until the arrival of the Eleventh cavalry, expected early in the week. Several leaders of the United Mine Workers today conferred with Major Holbrook. It was said the subject of disarmament had not been discussed.

Union officers today visited the site of the Ludlow tent colony to make plans for rebuilding the camp. The strikers have ordered material and are ready to begin work as soon as formal permission from the army authorities is obtained.

John R. Lawson left for Indianapolis tonight to attend a meeting of the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America.

"MOURNERS" AFTER ROCKEFELLER.

New York, May 3.—Despite the absence of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at his country home in Pocantico Hills, picketing by the so-called Free Silence league, in protest against what it terms his policy in the Colorado mine strike situation, was continued today in front of his downtown office and the Calvary Baptist church, which he attends. Red crosses were chalked in front of his home. The walk in front of the church, a Roman cross and a St. Andrew's cross were chalked. Detectives surmised that these were signs for the league's "mourners" to distinguish the buildings.

While the picketing was going on Marie Gaus, the Industrial Workers of the World orator, who was arrested yesterday for making threats against Mr. Rockefeller, was arraigned in court on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was released on bail for examination tomorrow.

The woman's attorneys said they would insist that Mr. Rockefeller appear in person as a witness against her.

Mr. Rockefeller, ill at Pocantico Hills, had requested the pastor, Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, at the Calvary Baptist church, today to read a letter at his Sunday school. Several of the "mourners" sat in the back of the church, and detectives sat near them. Twenty-five uniformed police were held in the pastor's study.

Armed with a permit from the police commission, the Rev. William Gamble, of the Episcopal Church of Coytesville, N. J., today held on the sidewalk across the street from the Standard Oil building the memorial service he had announced would take place there for the miners, their wives and children killed in Colorado. Wearing vestments, the clergyman conducted prayer and reading of scripture. Despite his permit, he was stopped by the police in the midst of his discourse and was obliged to hold the remainder of his service in Bowling Green, nearby. His text was: "It is Easier for a Camel to Go Through the Eye of a Needle Than for Rich Man to Enter the Kingdom of Heaven."

Picketing preparations by Colorado mine strike sympathizers were extended to the Rockefeller country home today. A band of seven mourners, five men and two women, each with a band of crepe about the arm, appeared in front of the gate of the country house. The leader of the band of the "mourners" next Sunday would hold a demonstration before the Rockefeller gates if the Colorado strike is not settled meanwhile. A considerable body would make the trip, the leader said, all wearing black clothes and black gloves.

"If possible, we will get a coffin and carry it with us," he added.

Neither of the Rockefellers attended church services today, and neither left the grounds of the estate.

LEGISLATURE TO CONSIDER STRIKE.

Denver, Col., May 3.—Party leaders today were laying plans for the conduct of the special session of the state legislature called for tomorrow by Governor Ammons to recommend laws pertaining to the industrial warfare that has raged in Colorado for some time. No plans had been crystallized tonight, but there was much talk of things the legislature possibly would do. Rumors of drastic action against certain state officials were rife, but none could be pinned down to a statement of what actually would be attempted.

Governor Ammons has asked for the enactment of arbitration laws, issuance of bonds to finance the past and future maintenance of the state militia, the establishment of a state constabulary and executive authority to prohibit the sale of or use of intoxicating liquors and arms and ammunition in troubled regions of the state will be asked.

It is reported to Adjutant General Chase tonight that two troops of cavalry from Fort Robinson, Neb., arrived in Lafayette late today and that troop D, Colorado national guard, was withdrawn immediately, leaving for Boulder. A band led the procession of strikers to greet the incoming federal troops and they were serenaded at the railway station.

ELECTION OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH FRAUD

New York, May 3.—Four election officials were arrested here today on indictments charging fraud in connection with the special election of April 7, at which the voters of the state, according to the official canvass, decided to hold next year a constitutional convention.

District Attorney Whitman announced he would carry his investigation of election frauds into every district under his jurisdiction. Indications, he said, pointed to a conspiracy to stuff the ballot boxes in favor of the constitutional convention proposition. All of the men arrested served in the sixth election district of the twelfth assembly district, which contains the residence of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall.

The statement given out at the district attorney's office called attention to this fact, but made no accusation against any party organization. In republican political circles, however, it was said the democrats favored holding the convention next year because they hoped a division of republicans and progressives would enable them to control it. If the proposition to call the convention would not have been held until 1917. The proposition was carried by a majority of only 1,353. When charges of fraud were made election boards were called to the fact that the twelfth assembly district gave 2,705 affirmative votes and only 164 against the proposition.

Three of the men under arrest are republicans and one a democrat. They are Daniel W. Borow, George Wasen and Jacob Koch, all election inspectors, and Louis Bohl, a poll clerk.

Schooner Is Ashore.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 3.—The schooner Theoline, which went ashore early Saturday morning near Nassau Inlet, is still hard and fast. Captain Cummins, of the schooner, which was bound from Boston to this port, came into Jacksonville today on the tug Barnett and took a train for this city, reporting the accident to the owners. The tug Biscayne has been pulling on the schooner all day in an effort to pull her into a nearby channel, and in all probability she will be floated sometime tomorrow.

ADVANCE IS FORBIDDEN TO AMERICAN SOLDIERS

Precautions at Vera Cruz Not to Bring on Battle With Huerta Forces.

Vera Cruz, May 3.—After yesterday's acute alarm all was quiet here today. Strict orders were issued today from headquarters for the American soldiers and marines in Vera Cruz and vicinity to remain in the same positions and not to advance or to bring on an encounter with the Mexican troops.

During the alarm, at the waterworks at El Tejar, detachments of marines and bluejackets were prepared for an immediate landing. Field guns were put into readiness for conveyance ashore, but at the last moment, when headquarters had established the fact that there was no need for assistance from the fleet, all orders were cancelled.

Official reports declare not a shot was fired, but other reports insist that shots were exchanged. The threat to take El Tejar is regarded here as having been made by one of the junior Mexican officers and not by General Gustavo Maas, himself.

Lieutenant William E. Zeibie, of the Fourth infantry, with a corporal and some of his men, proceeded to the break in the railroad where it was torn up by the Mexican troops and was astonished to find a squad of Mexican infantry. They were friendly and informed the Americans that a troop train was far out along the other line and it was said that they intended to attack the battle, if any, must progress. The Americans thanked them and returned their steps to El Tejar. An American corporal with the party says he did not know how far back General Maas was nor how strong his force was, except that there was a party of forty men a few miles beyond the break in the line. Much smoke was seen along the railroad and it was deduced that the Mexicans were engaged in burning the ties and destroying the line.

Some vessels of the torpedo boat flotilla are leaving for the north and others are expected to follow shortly. Rear Admiral Badger is keeping in close touch with the situation at Tampico through wireless, it is reported quiet there today.

The German liner Ypiranga is preparing to sail for New Orleans, but intends to stop at intermediate points along the coast to pick up German refugees. Officers of the line, as well as the German consulate, disclaim any intention of an attempt to be made to land at Tampico the war munitions whose arrival here brought about the seizure of the Vera Cruz customs house.

Officials in Vera Cruz look forward to a lengthy period of inactivity, while awaiting the results of the pending mediation.

Huerta Army Near Vera Cruz.

Washington, May 3.—Dispatches from Brigadier General Funston on the situation at Vera Cruz were the subject of a long conference at the war department tonight between Secretary Garrison and Major General Wotherspoon, chief of staff of the army.

It was said General Funston had asked for instructions in view of the hostile attitude of the Mexican army near the city.

Earlier in the day the general had reported that the American outposts at Vera Cruz were being watched by Mexicans, and there were more than 10,000 Mexican troops encamped in the vicinity. These dispatches were summed by Secretary Garrison in this statement:

"I am in receipt today of a dispatch from General Funston regarding the incident at the pumping plant. He says the officer in command of the Mexican troops was Major Zapota, of the engineer corps of the Mexican army. He refers to the fact that little dependable news about conditions in the interior is coming in, because no more refugees are now coming into Vera Cruz. It is reported to him that General Maas has about 4,000 men at Zoldad, and there are an unknown number, not large, watching our lines. He understands that the Mexicans have 5,000 troops at Jaldpa, and about 1,500 at Palma, where they are throwing up defenses. He says there are many wild rumors afloat which are not worthy of credence. Some provision sellers came into the city today from the north. The city is quiet. A Mexican officer who was in Vera Cruz in civil clothes was directed to leave."

WEST POINT STAR GOES TO THE LOOKOUT CLUB

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 3.—(Special.)—Manager McCormick wired President Andrews from Memphis tonight that he had signed Robert E. Lee, star infielder of the West Point military academy team. Lee was recommended by Sammy Strang, old Giant star and Chattanoogan, who coaches the cadets. Lee "flunked" in "Math." He will join the team in Atlanta this week.

If the statistics were available probably it would be found that 95 per cent of the rich men who earned their own money are never radical except in a large, general, impersonal way.

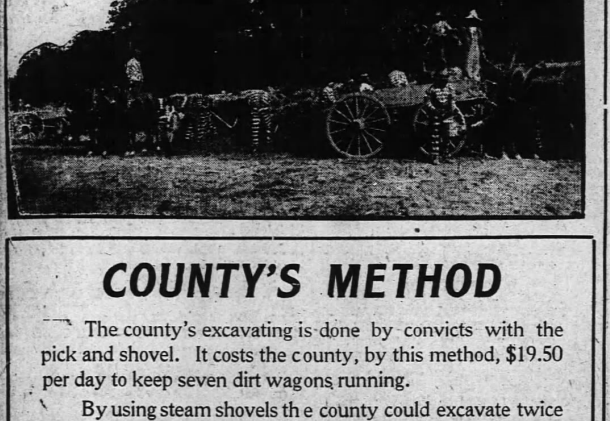
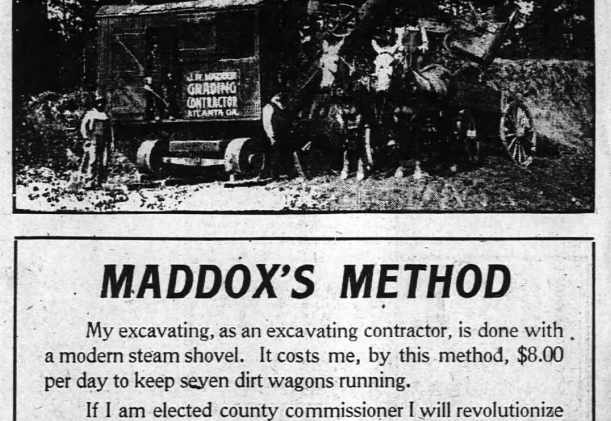
WASTE AND INEFFICIENCY vs. MODERN METHODS





To the Voters of Fulton County

I am a candidate for County Commissioner.

ECONOMY,
EFFICIENCY,
HUMANE TREATMENT,
MODERN METHODS—

These are the main planks in my platform.

Some of my opponents and their friends have circulated rumors that if elected I will vote for certain men for superintendent of the public works department of the county.

I take this occasion to say I will never vote for Mr. Shelby Smith for this position. With due respect to Mr. Smith, he is not an expert in road building, and I would no more, as a county commissioner, vote for a non-expert man for this position than I would, as an individual, engage a non-expert to give me medical attention.

In fairness to the voters, and with due respect to Captain T. J. Donaldson, I say that I will never vote for him for this position either. My reason is that Captain Donaldson permitted conditions to exist in the convict camps of Fulton county that were very wrong. Further, Captain Donaldson is not abreast of the times in the matter of modern machinery, his attitude being outspoken and well known.

I pledge the people, if I am elected, to turn the light of publicity on county affairs; to stop waste and increase efficiency; and to see that the convicts are treated like human beings.

Respectfully,

J. W. MADDOX

COUNTY'S METHOD

The county's excavating is done by convicts with the pick and shovel. It costs the county, by this method, $19.50 per day to keep seven dirt wagons running.

By using steam shovels the county could excavate twice as much dirt for the same cost or less, and could use the convicts exclusively for paving streets and roads and building sewers. Where machinery can be used to better advantage than labor, machinery should be used. This would enable the county to produce the maximum of results with the labor at its command, in those lines of work where machinery cannot be used to advantage.

MADDOX'S METHOD

My excavating, as an excavating contractor, is done with a modern steam shovel. It costs me, by this method, $8.00 per day to keep seven dirt wagons running.

If I am elected county commissioner I will revolutionize the county public works department by equipping it with steam shovels and other modern machinery. These things have enabled me to increase the efficiency of my forces as a private contractor. They would do the same for the county, and my first act on the county board will be to propose and insist that the county buy machinery and put it to work. Give me your support, Mr. Taxpayer.

Lucille LaVerne Wants a Baby; Needs It in Her Show Tonight

Wanted: Baby, boy preferred, about three or four months old; apply at the Lyric theater any time this morning, and ask for Miss Lucille LaVerne. No stage experience necessary.

Since time immemprial people have talked about "playing Hamlet with the melancholy Dane left out," which was merely another way of saying that the show was a failure. With this introduction it may be stated that unless the above advertised baby is forthcoming some time today, "The Heir to the Hoorah" is going to be a sad affair indeed.

Now, in this play, which will open at the Lyric tonight, a baby is as necessary as the asbestos curtain. The child is born in the third act, and has considerable to do with the action of the play in the final scene. If there is no baby, there can't be very much of a show, and consequently Miss LaVerne is at her wits' ends to provide the little one.

A call went out, and the action of the play is such that it absolutely bars any attempt at gathering together a bundle of rags and putting a dress on it.

This has got to be a real live baby. No makeshifts will be accepted, and the age has got to be right. It would be an easy matter to get a little girl or boy of three or four years, but of that many months—well, there's the introduction that Hamlet was mentioned in the first paragraph.

Advertising having utterly failed to bring about the desired result, Miss LaVerne last night appealed to The Constitution to aid her. "I must have this baby," she said, "or my show is flat. The mother and the child will be well cared for, provided they will help me out. I will be at the Lyric all day Monday to see applicants."

IF KIDNEYS ARE WEAK TRY BUCHU

Mixed With Juniper Is Old Folks' Recipe for Flushing Kidneys — Stops Backache and Uric Acid.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region, generally means your kidneys are weak. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges, channels often stop, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To relieve this distressing condition at once get from your pharmacist a 14-oz. bottle of Stuart's Buchu and Juniper Compound. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water after meals. Stop eating sweets or sugar. In a few days your kidneys will then act fine and natural. A well known authority says this is the best treatment. Stuart's Buchu and Juniper Compound acts directly on the urine through the kidneys, it keeps the blood healthy. It strengthens the neck of the bladder. It regulates the kidneys and does away with backache and all disagreeable symptoms. If discouraged with other medicines, buy a 14-oz. bottle of your druggist today.—(adv.)

GRAY VETERANS OF LOST CAUSE

Meet at Jacksonville This Week for Annual Reunion. Elaborate Preparations to Entertain Veterans.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 3.—With every detail of preparation completed, Jacksonville tonight was ready to welcome the United Confederate Veterans and the Sons of Confederate Veterans and members of the Confederate Southern Memorial association, which organizations will meet here in annual convention during the present week. Thousands of visitors are expected to attend, and elaborate preparations have been made for their entertainment.

The first meeting will be held Tuesday night, when the Sons of Confederate Veterans will assemble for their nineteenth yearly convocation. The principal events of the week, however, will not begin until Wednesday. Promptly at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning the United Confederate Veterans will formally open their twenty-fourth annual reunion, which will close Friday with the usual parade and the yearly ball in their honor. Sessions of the affiliated organizations will be held simultaneously with those of the United Veterans during the week, and their conventions also will end Friday.

Ready for Veterans.

For many months the Confederate Reunion association here has been hard at work making ready for the gathering. Tonight found its labors practically finished. Nothing but the actual reception and entertainment of the coming guests remained to be done, and the committees charged with that end were perfected days ago. Jacksonville already has been decked in gala attire in readiness for her guests. Tonight the city was ablaze with myriads of electric lights and gay with fluttering flags and bright bunting. At Springfield park five hundred tents, which will be the quarters for the veterans, for whose safety and care infinite precautions have been taken, simple provision has been made for old soldiers during the three days in which they will once more adventure upon camp life. Nothing has been overlooked that could add to their comfort and happiness in point of sanitation the tent city will be a model. There will be no crowding, no confusion. The advance guard of visitors will begin to arrive tomorrow, but all the veterans probably will not reach here before Wednesday morning.

Special attention has been given this year to the social events connected with the reunion. The first of these features will be the parade of sponsors and maids of honor Wednesday morning. There also will be balls Wednesday and Friday nights, and many other events of social nature during the week.

To Present Battle Flag.

A unique feature of Wednesday night's social session will be the presentation of the battle flag of Georgia captured from one of the regiments of the "Buckeye State" by confederates. The flag will be presented by the Alabama division, United Confederate Veterans, and will be formally accepted by Governor J. M. Cox, of Ohio. At the same session presentation of sponsors and maids of honor will be made.

In striking contrast to the established custom in reunions of the past will be the parade of veterans Friday. Heretofore the old soldiers have braved a long, hot march through endless streets, the ordeal being a terrible one. This year they will ride in automobiles and to trailing ambulances will follow the line of march. On Thursday afternoon the Sons of Confederates will hold their annual parade, marching with the National Guard of Florida.

It had been expected that a regiment of United States cavalry would attend the reunion and participate in the parades, and also that there would be on hand a number of vessels of the navy. The present imbroglio with Mexico, however, has necessitated the elimination of these features. The survivors of the cavalry brigade of General Nathan B. Forrest, however, will attend, and will lend their picturesque presence to the parades.

To Welcome Veterans.

Governor Park Trammell, of Florida, and Van C. Swearingen, mayor of Jacksonville, will deliver addresses of welcome to the veterans Wednesday, after which General Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief, will assume charge of the sessions.

Important business connected with the organization will occupy the attention of the veterans to a great extent during the second day of the reunion. The selection of next year's meeting place will be made Thursday, and the annual election of officers also will be held.

At noon Thursday memorial exercises will be held in the United Confederate Veterans' auditorium, under the auspices of the United Veterans and the Confederated Southern Memorial association. At these services the Sons of Veterans also will be present.

With all business cleared away, the veterans will be ready Friday for their parade and the grand ball with which the reunion will close.

COTTON CONFERENCE TO MEET IN AUGUSTA

Nearly All the Exchanges in the United States Will Be Represented.

Augusta, Ga., May 3.—The National Cotton conference to be composed of representatives of very nearly all the important cotton exchanges and cotton trades organizations in the United States will organize here tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock for a convention of two days, to be followed by a second convention for the permanent organization of the National Association of Cotton exchanges, the second call having been issued by W. C. Lawson, president of the cotton association of Texas.

33 Cotton Exchanges.

Thirty-three cotton exchanges will be represented in the general conference Monday and Tuesday, representatives from all of which are having arrived in the late trains tonight. The New York exchange delegation is headed by President E. S. Wood and the New Orleans exchange by President E. J. Glenny, both of whom have arrived. Mr. Glenny, M. D. Felder of the Dallas exchange, John G. Lonsdale, of the Little Rock exchange and others were in conference with executive members of the Augusta exchange this afternoon, arranging a tentative program for the opening session tomorrow.

President Frank H. Barrett, of the Augusta exchange, acting as temporary chairman, will call the conference to order and direct the election of a permanent chairman and secretary, immediately after which committees will be named to solidify the work to be handled.

Questions to Be Considered.

The conference will take under consideration, first of all, the division of the territory into the "western," "gulf" and "Atlantic" belts, the disposition of cotton arbitrations and points at which to arbitrate, new rules for the control of cotton allotments, revision of the rules and regulations of trade with maritime associations, and will liberally digest and make recommendations on future questions. Consideration will be given to rules and regulations of the New York Cotton Exchange and to all futures contracts as handled at this time.

Upon request from Congressman Lever, chairman of the house agricultural committee, the recommendations will be compiled as quickly as possible after the Tuesday session of the conferences and transmitted immediately to Mr. Lever, for consideration by his committee.

SUICIDE EPIDEMIC STRIKES ATLANTA

the heart at the Terminal station. Many witnessed the scene. A friend rushed him to the Grady, and his life was saved. Three days later, though, determined to commit the deed, he stole away from his sick couch in the dead of early morning hours, and quietly raised the window to his sick room, and pausing upon the sill a moment, as some phantom figure clothed in white, he plunged head foremost to the ground, the floors beneath.

A woman, married and in ill health, living on Capitol avenue, was the next to weary of life, and she made an unsuccessful attempt. She was saved by the Grady physicians.

Two negroes, one man and one woman, were the next to try to end their lives, both swallowing carbolic acid. They, too, were rushed to the Grady hospital, and their lives saved by prompt action.

Next, a young girl, of a prominent family, despondent and weary of struggling through life, swallowed the contents of a 2-ounce bottle of carbolic acid. She died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital. Her friends at the Winnie Davis ice cream parlor, on Peachtree street, where she worked as cashier, were appalled at her action, and could give no reason why she sought death.

Then, last Tuesday, three people, weary of living, tried to end life. By small boys playing baseball at Piedmont park, a man was found dead in a wooded ravine at the north end of the lake. A large bullet wound pierced his temple. No pistol could be found. He was believed murdered, but later friends declared themselves as believing he had taken his own life, stating that he had often threatened to kill himself. The man had been for some time in bad health.

Blows Out Brains.

On the same day, at a downtown hotel, a prominent citizen of a south Georgia town was found dead in his room. He had blown his brains out with a revolver, which lay on the bed beside him.

The same day it was reported that a young girl had made an unsuccessful attempt to end her life at a drug store on West Mitchell street.

The list of the weary in spirit did not end with these unfortunate happenings.

A prominent insurance agent, living on Capitol avenue, swallowed three bichloride of mercury tablets a night or two later. A neighbor, who chanced to witnessed the scene, and saved the man's life by showing presence of mind in quickly phoning for the Grady hospital ambulance, and his life was saved, and he told the doctors that he was tired of living.

This was not enough. Another was the weary of life. A Baltimore girl, who declared that her mother did not love her, bought carbolic acid on Whitehall street, wished to die, and telephoned a few minutes prior to swallowing the acrid acid to the Grady hospital ambulance driver, a friend of hers, to be sure to run slowly, so she would have time to die before the doctors could save her. Five minutes later the ambulance driver was answering a top speed ambulance call to the place. The girl's life was saved.

WORSHAM ELECTED CONSERVATION HEAD

Reports were compiled by the most prominent experts of the country in forestry and water power, including government, state and private workers. Methods of conservation were outlined for the development of these resources in the various states, and recommendations were made to the United States congress. These reports have been condensed and published in three volumes by the conservation congress to be distributed to people who are interested.

Agricultural Resources.

The main themes of the next congress will be the conservation of the agricultural resources, the conservation of fish and game, the development of inland waterways, the waste and the reduction of the high cost of living.

The executive committee is composed of the following:

Dr. George E. Condra, head of the conservation work, University of Nebraska, who at this meeting was made chairman of the executive committee to succeed Mr. Worsham, who had held that position for the last three years; Dr. Henry Wallace, Des Moines; Governor George C. Pardee, Berkeley, Cal.; Joseph N. Teal, of Portland, Ore.; Gifford Pinchot, of Washington, D. C.; Captain J. B. White, of Kansas City; Bernard N. Baker, of Baltimore; E. T. Allen, of Portland, Ore.; E. A. Stirling, of Philadelphia; Dr. George W. Field, of Boston; M. L. Alexander, of New Orleans; Dr. H. S. Drinker, president of Lehigh university.

NORDICA'S CONDITION SAID TO BE HOPELESS

Washington, May 3.—Consul Ranlan, at Batavia, reported to the state department tonight that the condition of Madame Nordica, the opera singer, ill there, is hopeless.

ANDERSON IS GIVEN STRONG INDORSEMENT

Chatham Committee Tells Why He Should Be Elected Governor of Georgia.

Savannah, May 3.—(Special.)—The democratic executive committee of Chatham county, at a special meeting last night, unanimously passed resolutions indorsing J. Randolph Anderson, of this city, and stating why he should be elected governor. The resolutions follow:

"The democratic executive committee of Chatham county, Georgia, hereby indorses the candidacy of Hon. J. Randolph Anderson for governor, and we call the attention of the people of the state to his eminent fitness and qualifications for this high office.

"In his long legislative career Mr. Anderson has, from the outset, been recognized as one of the most prominent and powerful of Georgia's sons, and has gained for himself a well-deserved reputation for fearless, honesty and courage. He has worked his way up in the state's service and now holds the distinguished position of president of the senate, to which he was unanimously elected by his fellow senators. His discharge of the duties of this position has added to his reputation for fairness, square dealing and parliamentary skill.

"The people of this county, among whom he has lived all his life, know him to be a man of fine education and ability, of the straightest integrity, of exemplary character, of kindly impulses and of high ideals—a man who, as governor, would reflect the best traditions of the state.

"We also commend him as not only the most logical, but also as the best qualified candidate of all the distinguished men whose names have been mentioned for the governorship. His official position puts him in the line of succession and none of the other candidates is more widely or favorably known. None of them has been of recent years in such close and continuous touch with the state government as has Mr. Anderson, and this has given him a greater experience and a wider and more intimate knowledge of the present affairs and needs of the state than any of the others can lay claim to.

"With him as governor the people can feel confident that the affairs of the state will be in the hands of a man broad enough to understand its needs in every part, able enough to take care of its every interest, honest enough to discharge his duties faithfully and brave enough to do so fearlessly."—(adv.)

Thought He Had Taken Bichloride of Mercury; Spends Night at Grady

Nathan Rosenfield, of the Peachtree Inn, under arrest at police station upon the charge of vagrancy and of disturbing the peace of Sunday afternoon, changing late Sunday afternoon thought he had swallowed by mistake a bichloride tablet, and to make sure requested that he be sent over to the Grady hospital to have the stomach pump used upon him.

Rosenfield was allayed with a quart of sweet milk and a dozen raw eggs in order to counteract the effect of any poison he might have taken, and the stomach pump test showed no signs of bichloride of mercury having been taken.

The young man was then too weak from the effects of the test to be sent back to police station, and was kept for the night at the Grady hospital.

Rosenfield stated that he had no poisonous antiseptic tablets in his pockets with some headache tablets.

GONZALEZ IS CHOSEN TO RULE COSTA RICA

Washington, May 3.—Costa Rican Minister Quesada today stated that Frederina Gonzales had been chosen by the Costa Rican government as president. The new government will inaugurate for four years. The new administration met last night.

Alfredo Fernandez, who polled 12,900 votes, and Carlos Duran, who polled 17,800 votes, neither having sufficient votes to be elected as president, resigned as candidates and the congress selected Senor Gonzales.

CRACKERS DRIVE MORE FROM MOUND

Edited By DICK JEMISON

Crackers Drive More Off Mound; Doscher Steady

Score Four Runs in Opening Round—Renfer Checks Locals—King's Hitting a Feature—Score 4-2.

By Paul W. Treanor.

Nashville, Tenn., May 3.—(Special.) Before a crowd estimated at 9,000, Billy Smith's champion Crackers took the third game of the series here this afternoon by a score of 4 to 2.

Getting to Forest More in the opening round for a total of four hits, the Crackers pushed across four tallies, a sufficient number, as later events proved, to drag down the decision.

In the opening round McConnell led off with a single through third, and Morley Jennings doubled. After Eibel had grounded out, More to Hemingway, Kircher hit a hot one which McNellis booted, McConnell counting on the misplay. Flanagan then drove the ball to deep center for a triple, scoring Jennings and Kircher. Flanagan scored a moment later, when Holland singled through third. More was yanked at this stage and Renfer substituted.

Doscher in Form.

Jack Doscher essayed to heave for the Crackers, and the box score indicates how well he performed. In the fifth inning, Jack loosened up a bit and Lindsay opened up with a double to the dump. After Smith and Renfer had popped out, King hit to center for one bag, scoring Lindsay. Williams was pinked, and Callahan delivered a single to right, which brought King over with the Vols' second and last marker.

The Vols had men on in practically every inning, but Doscher's jam-up heaving, coupled with faultless support, led by Morley Jennings, kept the Vols at bay except in the fifth.

Renfer, who succeeded More, pitched a great game, allowing but three scattered hits. Rotten fielding, principally by McNellis, frequently had him in the hole, but he emerged without a Cracker sinking his hoofs in the plate.

Billy Chased.

Billy Smith, the Cracker pilot, was chased from the grounds in the eighth, when he objected to a decision by Umpire Chestnutt at first. Sloan hit a high fly which looked foul, which Eibel muffed, but Chestnutt allowed Sloan to remain on first. Smith kicked up all kinds of rough house, with the result that he was ordered off the field.

Brilliant and sensational fielding by the Crackers featured throughout the melee.

King was the leading hitter with four hits out of five times at bat, while Sloan made a brilliant catch of Lynch's drive to the top of the right field dump in the eighth.

Crackers Home Tuesday, Play Three Home Series; Lookouts Will Be First

By Dick Jemison.

Battered and bruised, but still in the ring, the crippled Crackers, champions of the Southern League, will return to their own bailiwick tomorrow morning to remain until May 17.

They will play eleven games on home soil before again firing their guns at a hostile foe in a foreign clime.

Reports from the Peachtree Athletic club, where the Crackers' hospital camp is kept, are encouraging and the three cripples installed there are mending so rapidly that it is believed that on the team's return they will be able to get back into harness again.

Long Back.

Tommy Long reports that his finger is mending rapidly and that he'll be out there in left field trying it again tomorrow afternoon.

Welchonce is still weak from the fever that he had and it is doubtful if he will be able to get into harness at once. It will probably be the end of the week before he can return to the fray.

Munch, too, will be out several days. Billy planned to catch the youngster during some of the home games that start tomorrow and the chances are that he will work in the Birmingham and Montgomery series.

That the Crackers have played as well as they have with their two best hitters out of the line-up is a wonder. Take two .300 hitters from any team and it makes a difference.

What would Detroit do with Cobb and Crawford out or Philadelphia without Baker and Collins, or Washington without Gandil and Milan and numbers of the other teams that we might mention.

The Crackers' offensive-play centered around these two hitters, the other players realizing that if they could work men onto the bases with these fellows coming up—bar the gates. And it hurts defensively as well.

So it's up to you fans to bear with the boys until they get their full strength in the field once more. Give them every chance and encourage them in their crippled condition. Then watch them respond and show their appreciation.

Lookouts First.

The Lookouts will be the first to appear locally. And on their roster will be many new faces, but also many that will be familiar to local fandom.

The infield is composed of men who appeared here last season, Mickel Coyle on first, Carl Flick on second, Mike Balenti on short and Graff on third.

In the outfield, Manager McCormick in right, Baby Doll Jacobsen, who was with Mobile, and Texas Johnson, formerly of Montgomery, with Gillespie, of utility fame, are the men.

Gabby Street and Pat Graham, last year's catchers, are back on the job. Floyd Kroh is the only old member of the pitching staff. The new men are Lorenzen, Sline, Harding, Fox and Turner. They are all youngsters but Sline, who is an International League veteran.

Barons Follow.

Gladys Molesworth and his Birmingham Barons will be here for four games after the Lookouts, playing the first game Saturday and being here Shrine week.

In the outfield, Moley has McBride and Kniseley, of last year's team, though they have been shifted, the former playing center and the latter right. Magee, a new man, is in left.

Lil Marcan at second, Roy Ellam at short, and McDonald at third, members of last year's team, and Covington at first, from the St. Louis Browns, comprise the infield. Carroll, utility man last year, is also back.

Dilger of last year's team, with Tragressor and Wallace, is the catching staff.

Hardgrove and Gregory, of last lear's team; Brown, formerly of Montgomery; Grimes, formerly of Chattanooga, and Johnson, Robinson and Harben comprise the hurling corps.

Then the Billies.

Bobby Gilks, the former Shreveport manager, is at the helm of the Billikens this season. Bobby will present to Atlanta fandom a smattering of new and old men like the others.

He has Snedecor at first and Elwert at third, of last year's team. Baker at second and Holland at short are new men.

Jud Daley in left, Jantzen in center and McDowell in right are all old men, giving the Billies an average outfield with plenty of speed and good fielding, though a trifle weak with the stick.

Gribbens behind the bat is a familiar face. His helpmate is Jack Kleinow, the former big league star.

It was in the hurling department that the Billies underwent the most changes. Chuck Case is the only old hurler. Buscher, Black, Nelson and East are the new twirlers.

After the Billiken series, the Crackers hit the road for sixteen games before appearing on the home lot again. By that time, with the roster cut down to the limit, the Crackers will then be in position to give them all a battle for the rag.

GORDON INSTITUTE PLAYS DAHLONEGA

Rival Preps Meet in Two-Game Series at Barnesville, Starting Today.

Barnesville, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Gordon institute and the North Georgia Agricultural college, from Dahlonega, Ga., will meet here in a series of two games Monday and Tuesday.

This is the first meeting between these two teams this season, and the outcome of the games will be watched with considerable interest.

It will also furnish a comparison between Gordon and Georgia Military college. The latter won the two games that they played the Dahlonega boys. Gordon and G. M. C. have split even in their games to date. But they have two more later in the season.

Maxey and Dozier will do the twirling for the Gordon cadets in these games, with Monahan doing the receiving.

Coosa Tournament Ends.

Rome, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The spring golf tournament of the Coosa Country club came to a close yesterday with the award of silver loving cups to the winners, as follows: Simpson Dean in the first flight, C. R. Porter in the second flight, Hiles Hamilton in the third flight, and Mrs. H. A. Dean in the ladies' handicap match.

Moors Beaten by French.

Fez, Morocco, May 3.—A battle between French troops and followers of the native pretender to the Moroccan throne resulted today in the defeat of the Moors, who suffered enormous losses. The French casualties were nine killed and twenty-five wounded. The French troops attacked the natives in a mountain stronghold, which they carried at the point of the bayonet.

Barons 6, Billies 5.

Montgomery, Ala., May 3.—Birmingham made it three out of four games with Montgomery by taking the last game of the series this afternoon. The score was 6 to 5. Montgomery had numerous opportunities to win, but failed to accept them. Birmingham used Johnson, Gregory and Hardgrove in the box. The features were the hitting of Knisely and Baker and a catch by Daley. Poor base running cost Montgomery the game. Umpire Breitenstein put Catcher Dilger out of the game, and Grimes, a Birmingham pitcher, out of the grounds.

Mobile scored in the tenth when Kirby hit for two bases and got home on two sacrifice hits. The locals were held hitless for five innings and were unable to get a runner as far as second until the tenth.

ALABAMA BASEBALL NINE IN ATHENS

Plays Games With Red and Black There Today and Tuesday.

Athens, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The University of Alabama baseball team will be the opponents of Joe Bean's Red and Black nine here Monday and Tuesday in the first home games in ten days.

These games are return affairs Georgia visiting Tuscaloosa earlier in the season and winning two games from the Alabama boys.

The games will also furnish just the needed tough opposition that the university nine will want in preparation for the games with Georgia Tech Friday and Saturday.

King's Sunday Matinee Proves Boon to the Fans; Will Call Today's Game

Caller King entertained 1,000 Atlanta fans at his baseball matinee Sunday afternoon, and every one of them enjoyed the game, despite the fact that more than half had to stand throughout.

The detail was given free, though a contribution box stood in the doorway to give the fans opportunity to show their appreciation of the Sunday detail and to defray expenses. About half of them contributed.

Perfect order was observed throughout and no one could possibly see any objection to a continuance of the Sunday details.

The Nashville-Atlanta game today, the last one of the series before the Crackers come home, will be taken in detail. Play will start promptly at 3:30 o'clock.

Georgia and Tech Meet At Athens Last of Week; In Atlanta Next Week

The greatest of the college baseball series in so far as Georgia and Atlanta baseball fans are concerned will begin this week.

The University of Georgia and the Georgia School of Technology teams, the former coached by Joe Bean and the latter by J. W. Heisman, will stage their first battles in Athens on Friday and Saturday.

Mayor Rowe, the Athens Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations have declared a half holiday for each game, and the greatest crowds that have ever attended a baseball game in the Classic City is sure to be on hand.

These games create more interest than any baseball games during the entire season. The dope on the teams favors Georgia, but every one knows that the dope when these two rivals line up in any branch of sports is not worth the paper it is printed on.

Last year the dope favored Georgia to win in a walk, yet the Tech team won three out of the four games, to the surprise of not only the Georgia students and team and the public generally, but themselves as well.

The dope this year does not favor Georgia as much as it did last year. Will history repeat itself? That's the question that has all the fans of the city stirred up.

Cream of Motorcyclists Will Race at the 'Drome

The cream of the motorcycle riders of the United States will appear on the local motordrome this summer. Some of them are already here practicing. Others will arrive today, and by Wednesday the entire crowd will be practicing every afternoon.

The local motordrome racing season will begin Saturday, May 9, with races that afternoon and night.

The feature event of the afternoon program will be the Mayor Woodward sweepstakes, with the mayor firing the starting pistol. At the night performance City Clerk Walter Taylor will officiate in the event bearing his name.

Lawrence Flickenstein, Morty Graves, Speck Bruggerman, Harry Glenn, Tex Richards and Henry Lewis, of the boys who rode here last summer, will be back again. They are the best of the bunch.

Among the new riders who will appear here are Speed Carviston, Roy Shaw, Dave Kenney, Glenn Stokes and Bunt Buchell. Others will be announced later.

The full details, program, list of events, contestants, prices of admission and all complete dope will be announced in a few days.

Georgia-Alabama League Opens Its Season Today

The Georgia-Alabama league will open its second annual playing season today. No playing schedule has been officially adopted, as there is considerable objection thereto.

The teams will play under the schedule proposed for the first month, until President Boykin can make up a schedule that will be satisfactory for all the remainder of the season.

Eight clubs are in the league this season and the opening games will be largely attended. There is more interest than ever before in this fast little league.

Opening day games are scheduled as follows:
Rome, Ga., at Talladega, Ala.
Selma, Ala., at Anniston, Ala.
Gadsden, Ala., at Newnan, Ga.
Opelika, Ala., at LaGrange, Ga.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Tigers 9, Naps 5.

Cleveland, May 3.—Hard hitting, poor pitching, mediocre fielding and the errors of judgment characterized today's game, which Detroit won, 9 to 5. Redeeming features were the batting and fielding of Bush, Cobb, Burns and Stanage for Detroit, and the batting of Jackson, for Cleveland.

AT THE THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Gladys Clack and Harry Bergman, with twelve other folks, will present Jesse L. Laskey's best and really biggest success, "The Trained Nurse," as the headline act at the Forsyth this week. This act has been a star feature in the Broadway vaudeville theaters all the year. Jimmie Lucus, a "nut" comedian, is on the bill. This fellow knows nothing but fun and how to have fun. He tells stories and sings songs. The five musical Germans are going to sustain the musical interest that registered such a hit last week. Milt Collins, who does a monologue, is assured of a hit. Warren and Conley in songs and dances, the three Renards, who are wonderfully clever, and Frank McCrea, the sharpshooter, will contribute the sort of acts that have helped to make the Forsyth so famous.

"Heir to the Hoorah."

(At the Lyric.)

Beginning tonight the Lucille LaVerne company, at the Lyric, will offer the banner attraction of the season in "The Heir to the Hoorah." The play itself is described as a melodramatic farce from the pen of Paul Armstrong, one of the greatest of present-day dramatists. The cast calls for seventeen people. The ladies will all appear to good advantage, particularly Marguerite Chaffee, Olive Blakeney and Helen Haskell. Miss Chaffee has remarkable scope, and Miss LaVerne, in the role of Kate, will be irresistible as usual. Robert Middlemass will play the leading masculine role, supported by Forbes Aylmer, Louis Mason, James Marcus and Waide Scott.

Junior Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

With the reputation of being the best tabloid musical comedy playing vaudeville houses today "Oh, Look Who's Here?" comes to the Grand for a three days' engagement opening with a matinee performance this afternoon. Hal Johnson, a young musical comedy star from the middle-west, is featured, and it is said he is a clever comedian, singer and dancer, and has a splendid company supporting him. One of the big features of the show is a large and attractive chorus. Complete scenic production is carried, the scenes represent the exterior and interior of a large summer hotel on the Hudson, New York, are described as beautiful. Three performances will be given daily.

College Tennis Players Start Tourney Today

Charlotte, N. C., May 3.—(Special.)—The Southern Intercollegiate tennis tournament will be held here commencing Monday, May 4. This tournament will mark the seventh annual event of the association.

Numerous entries are being received daily by the authorities, and it is expected that a larger field will start this year than has ever before.

Georgia Tech will be represented in the meet by Harry Hallman, Tate Anthony and C. C. Gardner.

Some of the other entrants are J. W. Erwin and Thornton, of Clemson; Anderson and White, of Trinity, and G. W. Waring, E. S. Waring and Brooker, of the University of South Carolina.

The hosts of the tournament will be Oates and Chamers, of the University of North Carolina, and are promising a royal welcome to all that attend.

ORATORICAL CONTEST WON BY E. E. KEENER

Large Crowd Hears Addresses of College Boys on Phases of Liquor Traffic.

The first annual oratorical contest of the Georgia Intercollegiate Prohibition association was held Saturday night at the Tech Y. M. C. A. auditorium, and repeated Sunday night at the North Avenue Presbyterian church. A large and appreciative audience was present each time.

The five colleges represented, the speakers and their subjects and the winners, were as follows: Piedmont college, E. E. Keener, "The Coming Victory," first prize, $50; Georgia Tech, H. L. Hardy, "The Remedy and Its Price," second prize, $20; Mercer university, H. G. Wells, "The College Man's Relation to the Liquor Problem," third prize, medal; Reinhardt college, A. L. Franklin, "America at Stake;" State Normal, R. E. Allgood, "Evils of the Liquor Trade." All these addresses dealt with phases of the liquor traffic.

The prizes were delivered Saturday night.

Judges on composition and thought were Dr. S. S. Wallace and Dr. W. N. Hughlett; on delivery, Dr. R. O. Flinn, W. M. Bunts and H. F. Comer.

Mr. Hardy, of Tech, declared that "the only solution of the liquor problem is no liquor; licensed compromise is no victory. The government today needs men who belong to nobody."

STEEL DEVELOPMENTS WERE NOT ENCOURAGING

New York, N. Y., May 3.—Developments in the steel trade during the week were not encouraging to the mills. Orders for rotted products were small, estimated at about four per cent of capacity while specifications against contracts continued to fall off, resulting in a further decrease of output of ingots and rolled products. The industry, as a whole, was operating scarcely sixty per cent of capacity, but the subsidiaries of the steel corporation had about sixty-seven per cent of ingot capacity active. Indications point to a further decrease. The steel companies blew out seven blast furnaces this week, and more merchant furnaces are preparing for suspensions.

The most optimistic reports came from the tin plate trade, where several large contracts are pending, and more small orders are being placed at $3.30 to $3.40 per base box. Steel building work was less active. The fabricating shops booked total orders of 14,000 tons. The full April contracts aggregated 129,000 tons.

The New York subway contracts to be placed this month call for 12,000 tons of structural steel. The most important local work pending is for two tunnels under the last river, each of which will require 45,000 tons of cast iron segments.

Pig iron was again dull. Orders placed throughout called for only 140,000 tons. The total April contracts were 180,000 tons.

EAST SIDE TABERNACLE HOLDS ALL-DAY SINGING

An old-time all-day singing, with dinner on the ground, was held Sunday at East Side Tabernacle. About three hundred people and several choirs were present.

Rev. A. M. Schuler, pastor of the church, delivered a strong sermon in the morning touching upon the absence of the sense of guilt in the people of this age. In other connections, Rev. Schuler said that many of the older heads in the ministerial field worry over the departure from orthodoxy by the young men in the pulpit.

"It isn't the young preachers who are unorthodox," said he, "but the old coons."

15 GIVEN DIPLOMAS FROM BERRY SCHOOL

Rome, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—The graduating exercises of the Berry school came to a close tonight with a service by the Young Men's Christian association. This afternoon the Rev. James J. Hall, of Atlanta, spoke on the subject of "World-Wide Peace," and this morning the commencement sermon was delivered by the Rev. E. L. Hill, of Athens. The diplomas were conferred upon fifteen graduates by Judge Moses Wright, representing the board of trustees. Numerous prizes were given to the young men in the different classes.

TO BUILD TWO BRIDGES ACROSS BROAD RIVER

Elberton, Ga., May 3.—(Special.)—Elbert and Madison counties have decided to build two county line bridges across Broad river. One of the prospective sites is within the area covered by the Broad River Power company, which objects to the bridge being built lower than its high water mark. A conference between representatives of the two counties and the power company was held yesterday, and efforts are being made to get the bridge and not antagonize the company.

Chess Tourney.

St. Petersburg, Russia, May 3.—The eighth round of the International chess tourney, in progress here, resulted as follows:

Bernstein and Blackburne beat Lasker and Niemzowitsch, respectively. Tarrasch drew with Capablanca, and Gunsberg with Marshall. The Janowski-Rubinstein game was adjourned.

The leading scores are: Capablanca, 5; Alechine, 4½; Larrasch, Lasker, Bernstein, 4 each; Marshall, 3½.

Farms and Farmers

Address all letters intended for this Department to Col. R. J. Redding Editor of Farms and Farmers Department, Griffin, Georgia

May on the Farm.

With corn well on the way in the matter of cultivation and most of the cotton crop planted, the principal work of the month will be further and frequent stirring of the soil of the corn fields and the plowing, the "chopping" of cotton, the planting of sweet potatoes and early peas, etc.

The Cultivation of Corn.

Farmers quite generally have come to understand that the chief work of corn culture is in the preparation of the soil for planting, which should have been deep and disintegrating. No after work can fully atone for neglect or failure at that point. As a rule, the conditions—so far as rainfall was concerned—for preparing the soil have been exceptionally favorable. With no excess of rainfall—rather the contrary—there has been but little hindrance to plowing and harrowing. In a recent trip through the central region of Georgia there were evidences all along the route that the farmers had made good use of opportunity. In fact, I have not in ten years past seen the farms in better state of preparation than they were in the last of April. The plowing seemed more thorough and workmanlike, showing the use of better plows and a larger use of harrows and other implements of preparation. This refers to both corn and cotton.

With good stands already secured and the crop well planted, nothing is now in the future excepting good seasons—an abundant but not excessive rainfall—and good cultivation. The believers in deep plowing among the growing corn, with scooter and shovel, laying four to six furrows to the five-foot row, are mostly gone the "way of all the earth," and the present generation is well settled in the conviction that what corn needs in the way of inter-culture is frequent shallow stirring of the soil—after every rainfall if this does not occur oftener than every week or ten days. The old rule and practice was to go over the crop every three weeks and give it three plowings, which involved the putting of from three to five furrows in every five-foot row, making from nine to fifteen furrows in the course of the season. But now the up-to-date farmer goes but once to the row, or even carries two rows at one through trip, with a broad expanding cultivator, having learned the lesson that frequent shallow stirring of the surface soil to a depth not exceeding from one to two inches is the correct method.

On real good land, capable of a yield of 30 to 50 bushels and upward per acre I believe it pays to stir the surface even as often as once a week and have often thought it would be so "nice" to have an inch of rain every Saturday afternoon or night, and give the corn fields a stirring every Monday and Tuesday until lay-by time—the showers to continue until in "roasting ear."

Plant Peas.

Of course every cornfield will be planted in either cowpeas or soybeans along about the middle to the last of the month or at lay-bye time. I have never known a farmer to plant too many peas. I do not believe the peas or beans planted in the cornfield are of any advantage to the corn. On the contrary their growing presence demands a somewhat greater rainfall to mature the corn while also bringing the peas along. A writer in The Progressive Farmer says, the growth of soybeans in the cornfield supplies nitrogen to the current crop of corn. But I think his enthusiasm carries him a little too far. It is probable that soybeans, cowpeas and other legumes secrete through their bacterial tubercles only so much nitrogen as they require for their own purposes and do not yield up any of it until they die and decay.

Chopping Cotton.

I wish every farmer could be thoroughly impressed with the conviction that a good, regular stand of cotton plants is one among the important prequisites to a full crop. Indeed without a good stand it is impossible to make a good crop and without a perfect stand it will be impossible to secure a perfect crop.

Chopping cotton is a tedious and laborious operation at best and I am more and more of the opinion that the crop should be planted already chopped out, that is the seeds should be dropped in bunches of four or five, as far apart as the final spacing determined upon. I have not only studied the operation as a practical cotton grower, but have chopped many an acre of cotton in my younger days. The secret of success is to get over the crop in the shortest possible time. In smooth, well prepared soil and a good stand of plants, my evolved rule was to "not hit but once in the same place"—as I expressed it to my African hoe-drivers, and make every stroke of the hoe cut its full width next along the row. What is needed is to cut out the greatest number of the surplus cotton plants in a day, or other given time, together with the grass that grows among the plants. If that isn't a logical statement, the truth of which may be proven by arithmetic, then I don't know anything about it. By such a method the ordinary worker will easily go over twice the area in one day that he might do in the ordinary way, remove twice as many plants and twice as much row grass and stir twice as much row surface. "But," some will say, "there will be too many bunches of two to three and four plants left in a hill." That is quite true, but instead of requiring, say two or three weeks to chop out a crop it might be done in about half the time and there will be an equal length of time to "while in" and go over the crop again and put it to a final stand. Meantime the plows will come along and "dirt" the young cotton and corn up the remaining sprigs of grass. Try it, some of you farmers.

The Oat Crop.

During the cross-country trip above referred to I was further delighted to see the increased area sown to oats and nearly all of it was good and some of it might have been much better if it had been properly and liberally fertilized at the time of sowing the seeds, instead of being sown without any fertilizer at all and reliance had on nitrating in March—a very serious error in oat culture or any other culture. Oats, nor any other crop, can make a full yield managed in any such way. The crop should have a liberal dose of acid phosphate and potash at time of sowing and a moderate quantity of cotton meal or other nitrogen-supplying ingredient, and then be supplemented in March by a top-dressing of nitrate of soda or of sulphate of ammonia.

Harvesting the crop will be in order towards the last of the month and early in June—according to latitude. I believe in threshing out the entire crop as soon as harvested and well cured in shocks and feeding the shelled oats along with an equal weight of corn all through the year. Of course oat hay—the crop cut as the grain passes into the dough state—is a very good feed, but it cannot take the place of grain. Let the oats get ripe and then thresh them out when perfectly dry. Feeding oats in the sheaf is a wasteful practice if enough are given to satisfy the appetite of a work animal. If he is given enough he will leave most of the straw under his feet. R. J. REDDING.

FIRE-BLIGHT OF APPLE TREES.

J. A. Hardaway, Milner, Ga.—I am enclosing a sprig from one of my apple trees. Can you tell me if it was blight, or the frost that killed them? They were in full bloom nicely a few days before the last hard frost and skim of ice. If blight, what time should they be sprayed? Last year but few blossoms came and this time probably a dozen or so on some trees still left.

Answer—The injured specimens of apple twigs sent me were unmistakably affected by fire-blight, more commonly called "pear blight," because more deadly to pear trees than to apple trees. No spray, or other treatment, has yet been discovered for the disease, except to amputate the injured branches about 10 to 12 inches below the lowest signs of the blight injury and to avoid the too liberal use of stable manure, cotton meal or other nitrogenous manures about the trees. My few apple trees are similarly affected. In cutting off the infected branches it would be well not to use the same knife that you may have just used to see how far the blight has extended down the branches—otherwise the infection may be communicated by the knife to a healthy limb—unless you shall sterilize the knife.

SORE TEATS OF COW.

J. D. Robinson, Bowdon, Ga.—I have a young cow that has something wrong with her teats. They got red; looked as if they were baked. A hard crust forms and then cracks open. They are mighty sore and I can hardly milk her at all. It is mostly on the outside of teats. Please give me name and remedy through The Tri-Weekly.

Answer—I suspect that the disease that has attacked your cow's teats is nothing more serious than cowpox—a very common affection, although your description does not exactly fit, since cowpox appears in little blisters, or red spots which grow as large as a horse bean, and milking becomes very painful to the animal. These spots rapidly increase in size and tenderness, become filled with a clear fluid and surrounded by a red base. The treatment is mainly to use great care in milking, not to remove the scabs or otherwise irritate the sores. It is best to use a silver or glass milking tube. Give one pound of Epsom salts in one-half gallon cold water at one dose, including also one ounce ground ginger. After this operates give one-half ounce of saltpeter in the drinking water twice a day for three or four days. If the udder is swollen and hot, bathe it with hot water for half hour three times a day and after each bathing apply a little lotion of one ounce sugar of lead dissolved in one quart of water. It runs its course in about two weeks if not irritated.

BARBED WIRE CUT.

J. T. Nall, Ceciliian, Ky.—Please give me treatment for barbed wire injury to a mule, which has left a knot on his leg.

Answer—With a sharp knife pare off the knot as much as may be done without bleeding freely and then rub on the freshly pared surface a little bichloride of mercury—not more than would lie on a dime—by means of a smooth piece of stick. Do this every third day until the knot is burned down lower than the skin. Then apply once a day a little oxide of zinc ointment (zinc oxide one ounce, lard two ounces). This will cause it to heal up naturally.

TOMATO SPRAY.

C. S. Holley, Marion, Ala.—Will you please send me the spray you had in Constitution last year for tomatoes. I cut it out and have lost it some way, so will you please send it on card I send you. Mine start to dying or drying up at bottom, and follow up the growth until it completely dies.

Answer—I do not recall the formula given last year for spraying tomato plants, but presume it was for preventing mildew, black rot and bcaterial blight, which is as follows: Slack one pound of quick lime in a gallon of water, then add about two-thirds of a pound of powdered bluestone and dissolve it well. Then add nine gallons of water. You may as well also add one ounce of paris green. Keep well stirred and spray every ten days.

For leaf curl stop pinching the vines and withhold water.

For a large number of vines mix up 50 gallons of the above spray, as follows: Four pounds bluestone, six pounds of quicklime, five ounces paris green and 50 gallons of water.

PARALYSIS OF DOG.

J. H. Connor, Millport, Ala.—Please give me some advice on my 3-year-old hound dog. About one month ago he took distember and was blind for a week or more. His eyes are well now, but there is something wrong with his loins. He can hardly walk or stand up. Any information will be appreciated.

Answer—Your dog has paralysis, a condition which often follows an attack of distemper. It usually yields readily to prompt treatment, as follows: Clip off the hair over the loins and along the spine and apply a solution of one stick of lunar caustic in one teaspoonful of water. Paint it on with a camel's hair brush. Give internally a course of nux vomica as follows: One dram of powdered nux vomica, two drams of gentian, two drams of iodide of potash and enough simple syrup to mix into a stiff paste. Divide into 120 pills. Give one pill morning and night for three days; then two pills morning and night for three more days; then three pills morning and night for three more days, and then give four pills and keep on at that rate until definite action of the remedy is secured, which will be shown by rigidity of the muscles and stiffness of the legs, say half-hour after a pill has been taken. Then stop giving pills. Be careful not to omit a dose else the next dose may kill the dog. Repeat the blister on back if necessary. Feed on nourishing light diet, keep him clean and the bowels open by occasional doses of castor oil. Do not let him walk about too much, but keep him quiet, as fatigue is injurious.

RHEUMATISM OF COWS.

To K. S. Weeks, Dunn, N. C.—Your cow has had acute rheumatism, probably of both the musclar and the articular form, and it is now assuming a chronic condition. In treating for rheumatism, the first step is to provide—if not already done—proper shelter and protection against cold, wet draughts and sudden changes of temperature. The medicinal treatment at the outset of the attack should have consisted of full and frequent doses of salicylate of soda, say 1-2 ounce every 2 hours for 10 hours, or until relief is secured. But in chronic cases it should not be continued too long nor given so often, say 1-2 ounce a day until permanent relief is secured, and then stopped, but not longer than 10 days. Keep the bowels open. Give 1-2 ounce of saltpeter 3 times a day. Camphorated spirits, soap liniment may be rubbed on painful places daily.

WORMY MARE AND COLT.

W. M. Rush, Pekin, N. C.—I have a mare that is wormy, and is thin in flesh. I would like for you to give me a guaranteed remedy to rid her of the worms. She seldom ever passes any, but she has a white slimy mucus around the anus. She eats hearty, but don't gain in flesh. I also have a 2-year-old filly that is wormy. Will the same remedy do for both?

Answer—It is sometimes essential to know what species of worms is the cause of the trouble. I am not in the guarantee business, but the following remedies are recommended: Give a grown horse 2 ounces of spirits turpentine in half pint of raw linseed oil at a dose on an empty stomach morning and night for 3 or 4 days, and then a dose of one quart of raw linseed oil. Another: Mix 2 drams of asafetida, 1 dram of calomel, 1 dram of savin and 2 drams of fluid extract of male shield fern, and make it into a ball and give at night on an empty stomach. A bran mash may be given 2 hours after the ball, and next morning one ounce of aloes as a physic.

WHAT KILLED THE PIGS?

J. A. Endicott, Sulphur Rock, Ark.—Some eight weeks ago I had two good brood sows to farrow under very favorable conditions. The young girls seemed to grow right off from the very start, and were as fat and chubby as one could wish. They were housed a little better than the average run of pig families, but they commenced to grow lame, sometimes in a fore-leg, sometimes in a hind-leg, and in two or three days thereafter the little fellows died. The two litters were housed about forty rods apart, yet all my pigs died. Their beds were of clean, dry leaves. I discovered lice on the pigs and smeared coal oil and lard over the sick and the well ones alike, but to no avail. Some of them wheezed a little just about twelve hours before they died. All acted as though they had fever. I administered a few doses of sweet oil containing three drops of turpentine to two different ones, and they seemed to grow better, but died next day. All of them lived to be about six weeks old. None of my neighbors are able to tell me what was wrong.

Answer—I publish Mr. Endicott's letter not for the purpose of giving a diagnosis and treatment, for I am as greatly nonplussed as he; but in hopes that some one may solve the puzzle presented by a lot of healthy, vigorous pigs dying—every one of them—at six weeks old, with no symptoms, so far as Mr. E. describes, excepting lameness. I would have called it rheumatism, which is a common disease of pigs, but rheumatism is rarely fatal.

GROWING CABBAGE PLANTS

A. S. Johnson, Pelham, Ga.—I wish to plant about one-eighth of an acre in cabbage seed and expect to sell the plants. Would it do to plant in rows about twelve inches apart and fertilize well? Also give me a rough estimate of about how many plants I might expect from this amount of land. Hoping to hear from you soon, I am, yours truly, A. S. JOHNSON.

Answer.—One-eighth of an acre of rich, well-prepared land sown with good, fresh cabbage seed in 12-inch rows should produce between 90 and 105 thousand plants. This estimate is based on securing 18 to 21 good plants from each foot of row.

BLIND STAGGERS (?).

C. L. Nelson, Finleyson, Ga.—I am writing you a few lines for information: I have lost in the last three months four head of horses and mules from blind or sleepy staggers, and I have not found out any remedy, for they all die so quickly. I will give you a description of the barn and lot: We have a good barn, built two years; we have cleaned it out recently and strawed it and whitewashed it with lime on the inside. It seems that it has all the ventilation it needs, and water trough in it, and we clean it out two or three times every week, and also keep plenty of water in it. Now as to the open lot: It is next to the barn and is on an elevated ground, so no water stands any length of time. The last mule died two nights ago; he (my boy) has decided to let them run in this lot a while to see if that will do any good. Some have told him to build another lot off from the old lot to see if that will do any good. Our neighbors think there is something about here that causes it.

Answer—I assume that you are correct in your diagnosis as blind staggers, called also cerebro-spinal meningitis. This disease is not yet well understood and there is no reliable specific for it. There are two or three grades or forms, the first of which is so rapid that treatment cannot be prompt enough to avail, especially as the animal loses the power to swallow and no medicine can be administered by that channel, and general paralysis soon supervenes followed by death. In the milder form when the power to swallow is not lost give at once 4 to 6 ozs. of whisky in 2 pints of milk, and then proceed to give 2-grain doses of strychnine, two or three times a day. The strychnine should be stopped if twitching of the shoulder muscles begins, or gritting of the teeth. The first thing, however, after giving the stimulant is to secure an operation of the bowels by a purge of 1 quart of raw linseed oil. When unable to swallow give an epidermic injection of one-quarter grain of atropia every 4, 6 or 8 hours, as the case may demand, as a stimulant to the heart.

You have not mentioned one important precaution, and that is to remove the animals from the stable, as it will become infected, and not use it again until some weeks have elapsed and it has been thoroughly overhauled, cleaned and disinfected. Only the soundest and best quality of food should be given or permitted, whether in stable or pasture.

WORMS IN CHICKENS.

Mrs. J. L. Graves, Amity, Ga.—Will you, through The Tri-Weekly Constitution, give me a remedy or recipe for worms in chickens? Will be glad of any information given.

Answer—It would, perhaps, have been well to address your inquiry to the editor of the Poultry Department, care of Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. I will say, however, that there are quite a number of species of parasites that infest different parts of the digestive and other organs of fowls. Perhaps the best general remedy for worms that infest the stomach and bowels is spirits of turpentine mixed with about twice its bulk of sweet oil and one to two tablespoonfuls be given at a dose. Garlic, mixed with hard-boiled eggs and beef liver and all finely chopped and worked into a pasty mass and given so that each fowl will get about 5 or 7 grains of garlic, is good for stomach worms and also gapes (windpipe worms). Move the dead chickens; also whitewash the fowl quarters with lime and water which contains 5 per cent carbolic acid.

BAD MILK.

B. G. Crawford, Eastman, Ga.—My cow is of the Jersey strain. She is in fair fix and gives a good supply of milk, but the milk will clabber in from eight to ten hours without souring. The clabber is sweet and in about three or four hours it will all turn to whey, but a ball of curd in the bottom, and is entirely unfit for use. This cow was in the same fix last year, and I put her up and fed on cotton seed meal and shucks and it did no good. The milk vessels have been scalded and new ones bought, and nothing does any good.

Answer—If the stable or stall has been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, as well as the utensils used about the milk, then the cause must be looked for in the water and food that the cow drinks and eats. See that she gets no dirty or stagnant water to drink—water that you wouldn't drink yourself. Also give the cow 2 drams of bisulphite of soda daily. Sometimes the udder itself becomes infected with a bad bacterium from wading in stagnant water, or lying in filth. If the treatment above does not remove the trouble, then try an injection of 2 drams of hyposulphite (not the same as the bisulphite) of soda in a pint of water, immediately after each of three or four milkings a day. (Please report results of treatment).

"THE GANG"

Doesn't Answer Waters But He Shows Up the Ring's Slanders

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY:

THE RING IS HARD HIT.

In its frenzied efforts to defeat me, the gang, which ran the affairs of the county in 1913, is spending huge sums in advertising vile slanders against me.

But notice, Mr. Voter and Mr. Taxpayer, while my opponent and the ring, with which he is affiliated, spends money lavishly to slander me, it does not seem to have enough money to explain my PROVEN CHARGES that the ring in 1913 paid the Barber Asphalt Company $5 more than the market price of its material, and generally allowed that company TO LOOT THE TREASURY OF FULTON COUNTY.

Neither does the ring explain why it had the county's forces work real estate developments, FOR THE GAIN OF A FEW, while the people generally suffered for the want of roads.

Instead, the ring charges that I am having the county convicts work Waters avenue for my own benefit, although the ring knows that the avenue, which bears my name, DOES NOT pass NEAR a single bit of property which I own, or in which I am even interested.

My opponents, one of whom is nominal and the others ACTUAL, charge that important work is being neglected while "Anderson Boulevard" is graded for the benefit of one of my colleagues on the board. While writing this FALSEHOOD, the ring knew that one of its members first advocated the placing of convicts on this road, and it also knew that for two years I held up the working of this important thoroughfare—the Powers Ferry Road—because another member of the triumvirate, Shelby Smith, wanted to make a lengthy, costly and impracticable detour, which would bring the road through property in which he had a recently acquired interest. This road, which is now being built on the ONLY PRACTICABLE ROUTE, is very essential to the county, being a direct route from Cobb County, and as it is now being built, SERVES ALL OF THE ORIGINAL HOME OWNERS.

The records of the board PROVE that no more important work to the county is being neglected in order that these two roads can be worked.

The ring charges that I am opposed to modern road-building machinery. I am NOT opposed to modern machinery, but I AM OPPOSED TO GRAFT, and I do stand for protecting the taxpayers from it.

The records of the board of county commissioners PROVE that I have introduced more measures looking towards REAL CONVICT REFORM, and have strenuously advocated more of such measures, than ANY OTHER MEMBER OF THE BOARD.

I did oppose the summary discharge of Captain T. J. Donaldson without giving him a hearing. I did not uphold or condemn Captain Donaldson. I simply opposed the discharge of a county employee, who was under charges, without giving him a hearing—a fair trial. The world knows that the grand jury investigation was ex parte; that Donaldson was given no chance to defend himself.

I still stand on my record as opposed to the summary discharge of any county employee, who is under charges, without giving him a chance to explain his acts or his position.

The gang is fighting hard to hold its private caucus control of the affairs of Fulton County.

VOTERS: BREAK UP THIS RING BY CASTING A BALLOT FOR TULL C. WATERS.

REVIEW OF PAST WEEK IN THE STOCK MARKET

New York, May 3.—The hopes of a settlement of the Mexican problem held out by the good offices tendered by the three South American republics caused a complete reversal of the form of speculative stocks. This was supplemented in the course of the week by the growing strength of money, splendid promise for the country's crops and increasing confidence that the interstate commerce commission would sanction the advance in freight rates. The improvement in London, owing to the likelihood of an agreement on the home rule question also benefited this market. Misgivings persisted over some important features of the situation, but it was obvious that necessary covering operations were adding substantially to the market's strength.

Resumption of railroad buying would fill up the principal hiatus, in the present demand for steel. Industrial stocks, therefore, shared in the benefit from the expected relief to railroads brought higher rates. This tendency offset the influence of the poor showing of United States Steel earnings for the first quarter and of reports that a poor business was still worse. Railroad earnings for March showed improvement over February, and in many cases over March of last year, when floods caused heavy losses.

The reserve maintained by capital presents difficulties for corporations of inferior credit with maturing obligations, a number of which were acutely weak in the market. Financing of these, however, made progress.

Money ease was helped by foreign purchases of stocks here, and by reduction of reserve requirements under a new state law for non-clearing house banks and by the easing of tension over the Mexican situation.

BODIES OF HERO DEAD SENT TO UNITED STATES

Corpses of Men Killed at Vera Cruz Started for New York. Solemn Honors Paid.

Vera Cruz, May 3.—The bodies of seventeen American bluejackets and marines, killed in the street fighting during the operations accompanying the occupation of Vera Cruz by the United States fleet, started on their way to New York today on board the cruiser Montana. Solemn honors were held by the great assemblage of United States and foreign war vessels as the Montana departed.

The crews of the warships, in full uniform, lined the sides of the warships and as the Montana reached each one, the men stood at attention, the marine guards presented arms and the ships' bands played. One by one the colors of the fighting craft sank to half-mast as the Montana passed through a lane formed by divisions of the Atlantic fleet.

On shore during the Montana's passage out of the harbor, the flag over Brigadier General Frederick Funston's headquarters was half-masted and was only raised again when the vessel had disappeared on the horizon.

The hospital ship Solace, with about 100 sick and wounded American bluejackets and marines on board, it was said today, might sail northward later this week. All the men under treatment on board are doing well.

Lower Rates of Interest for Farmers.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside the national farm paper published at Springfield, Ohio, Judson C. Welliver, Washington correspondent of that publication, writes an article entitled "Lower Rates of Interest on the Way" in which he says that it is practically certain that before the adjournment of the present congressional session legislation will be passed providing for the creation of a new class of banks under federal charters for the particular business of handling farm land loans. This will be the outcome of the work of a United States commission that has been investigating this subject abroad with a view to getting suggestions looking toward the passage of legislation needed in this country. On the subject of farmers as borrowers Mr. Welliver writes in part, as follows:

"Our country has fallen behind the European world in providing facilities for making the farmers' credit available. Our banking system has grown up around the theory of providing money as cheaply as possible for industrial transportation and commercial enterprises. The farmers' needs have been rather forgotten in our system. Our banking facilities have not sufficiently recognized the ned of making the peculiar kind of loans the farmers need. The legislation now about to be enacted aims to fill up this gap in our system."

Make Your Candidate Tell Where He Stands.

"Every time heretofore that we have sent a candidate to the legislature from our county," said a public-spirited citizen to the writer recently, "we have been buying a pig in a poke. We didn't know where he stood about anything. In fact, a candidate seemed to think it his chief purpose to keep the people from knowing where he stood instead of to let them know.

"But we are going to change that this year," he went on. "I don't know who's going to be our senator, but one thing sure, he has got to tell the people where he stands. He has got to give us his platform."

It is to be hoped that voters in a thousand counties in the south are feeling the same way. Our farmers need to give less attention to electing candidates and more attention to selecting them. Have a county platform, if possible, but if you can't get that, at any rate make every candidate for the legislature give his views on all such issues as we suggested last week, and then vote for him according to whether his platform is good or poor.

The only real test is as to how a candidate stands on these measures for the upbuilding of the county and the state. We have said that we want to see more farmers in the legislature, but we had rather have a constructive, progressive lawyer any time than a standpat, unprogressive farmer. We have known some farmer legislators who had become ultra-conservative and "set in their ways" and did more harm to the farmers' interest than anybody else in the legislature.

One-Tenth Acre of Tomatoes.

Cost of yield and canning	$35.33
Canned products, 770 cans.
Net cost per can	.04
Cost of home canner	6.25
Sold fresh tomatoes	47.90
Net profit for season	78.37

"At this rate an acre would produce a net profit of $783.70.

"A garden can be made to pay all right. Of course, it takes work and sense, but it takes this—and gumption too—to make any work succeed."

Money Made in Small Gardens.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside Jessie Field writes an article entiled "The Country Girl and Her Garden"—an article full of practical suggestions. On the question of profits Miss Field writes, in part, as follows:

"Just now I have before me in Farmers' Bulletin 521, from the United States department of agriculture, the record of Miss Katie Gunter, of Samaria, S. C., in the Girls' Tomato club work. It reads:

Unsettled Weather Still Affects Trade, Say Reports

Business Irregular Despite Excellent Crop Prospects, Says Bradstreet's.

Bradstreet's report says:

Excellent reports as to crop prospects strikingly contrast with advices of irregularity in trade and industry. Where weather conditions have been favorable a moderately good volume of retail business has been done, but in the northwest it has been too wet for best developments, and in the southwest, as well as in parts of the west and in the east generally, movements have been retarded by low temperatures. At the same time, country trade rules quiet, chiefly because farmers are too busy with spring work to come to buying centers.

Wholesale Trade Quiet.

Incidentally, wholesale trade exhibits between seasons quiet, and, except in special instances, buying continues of a hand-to-mouth character, little disposition to cover far future wants being in evidence. Short time in the staple industrial channels is quite pronounced, but the inception of outdoor work tends to absorb many of the unemployed. However, manufacturing operations reflect more irregularity than heretofore, and it is probable that curtailment in the iron and steel trades has gained additional force. On the other hand, crop matters, whether of preparation or growth, are highly propitious, except in the north Atlantic states, where spring work is backward, and if early promises are reasonably well maintained, bumper yields of wheat are not improbable. Railway traffic in the west is heavier than at this time last year, when business was good.

Collections Dragging.

Collections continue to drag, and in sections where last year's corn harvest was short extensions are being asked. Money is easy, and demand for commercial purposes is fairly good. Stock market operations are still governed by professional trading, in which bear pressure was evident early, but support later turned the tone, and more strength, with little widening of operations, was apparent at the close.

Jobbers have done a good business in cotton wash dress fabrics, and dress silks have also sold well, but staple cottons, aside from some heavy kinds like duck and military material, are reported dull and weak, and short time is reported in some mills. New business in cotton yarns is light, but deliveries on old contracts are being called for. Worsted and woolen yarns are firm and tend upward. Raw silk is higher. Silk ribbons sell well.

Fundamental Conditions Sound and the Outlook Augurs Well, Says Dun.

Dun's report says:

While some betterment is discernible in certain branches of trade, in others a further moderate recession in activity is manifest. Fundamental conditions are sound and the agricultural outlook augurs well for the future, yet hesitancy is general in anticipating forward requirements. Complaints are still heard, especially in the East, of the restraining influence of unsettled weather, which checks a full retail distribution of seasonable merchandise and also hampers outdoor work. Although expansion in building operations is to be expected at this period of the year, nearly all wholesale lines dependent upon new construction are at present quiet.

Iron and Steel Market.

Absence of any important contracts for structural material has resulted in price concessions, and sentiment in iron and steel is not improved. Production is being curtailed and mill forces reduced, the policy of the railroads in confining purchases to the closest possible limits constituting the chief drawback. Lowering of quotations on copper by the leading agencies has proved effective in stimulating the demand, large sales having recently been made on the basis of 14 1-4c for electrolytic. Encouraging news is received from the principal footwear markets, in which buying has increased, both for immediate and remote needs. Business in leather is not uniform, but values are quite well maintained in sympathy with the strength in hides, which have moved more freely than for some time past.

Advances in cotton duck have been induced by anticipated government purchases, but the wholesale dry goods trade is more conservatively inclined in the matter of future commitments. As a whole, retail distribution is quieter, owing in part to the adverse weather. Both underwear and hosiery lines are unusually dull and knit goods curtailment is becoming more noticeable.

Interest in Wool.

Reports from New England indicate an active interest in wool, although transactions are restricted because of the limited offerings. Foreign commerce returns show large shipments of the staple to this country and for the latest week merchandise imports were fully $5,000,000 in excess of a year ago, whereas exports fell off about $3,000,000. In contrast to the new crop cotton options, which displayed considerable firmness on the backward season in the belt, wheat receded in value. Depression resulted from predictions of a record-breaking yield, which the next official estimate is expected to verify. The tendency of the other cereals was also downward and of the 310 commodity prices compiled by Dun's Review 28 showed declines and 17 advances this week. Sentiment in the finacial markests has improved in response to the more favorable turn in the Mexican situation, quotations of securities recovering part of the recent losses. Buying of stocks for European account was a factor in checking the rise in sterling exchange and, contrary to expectations, no gold was engaged for export to Paris. Clearings through the banks this week again exceeded those of last year, the gain being 4.8 per cent, while gross earnings of railroads reporting for three weeks of April show a slight increase of 0.1 per cent as compared with 1913.

BANK CLEARINGS IN UNITED STATES FOR THE PAST WEEK

Bank clearings in the United States for the past week as reported to Bradstreet's Journal, New York, aggregate $3,235,326,000, against $3,586,222,000 last week and $3,099,264,000 in this week last year. Canadian clearings aggregate $161,564,000, as against $168,851,000 last week and $166,249,000 in this week last year. Following are the returns for this week and last, with percentages of change from this week last year:

COMMANDER OF MARINES AT VERA CRUZ

1-ARMY AEROPLANE — 2- COL. FRANK MOSES

Colonel Frank Moses, commander of the marines which drove the Mexican army out of Vera Cruz, has proceeded twenty miles westward along the Mexican Central railway to protect the tracks. Every effort is being made to keep the road open to Mexico City. All the bridges near Vera Cruz have been preserved. Aeroplanes are being actively used in scouting operations, and they have enabled the United States officers to know at all times the location of hostile forces within fifty miles of the city.

CAROLINA SOCIALISTS NAME A FULL TICKET

Columbia, S. C., May 3.—Socialists of South Carolina, meeting in state convention today in Columbia, nominated a ticket for state officers and for the United States senate, and adopted a platform which is identical with that of the last campaign except that a section has been inserted demanding reduction of the fertilizer tax tag from 25 to 10 cents per ton.

Nominations were made as follows:

For Governor—R. B. Britton, Charleston.

For Lieutenant Governor—John C. Gibbs, Georgetown.

For Secretary of State—P. I. Rawl, Lexington.

For Comptroller General—J. F. Fink, Hartsville.

For Attorney General—W. C. Seigler, Columbia.

For State Treasurer—D. H. McLaughlin, Jefferson.

For State Superintendent of Education—Walter M. Cook, Charleston.

For Comissioner of Agriculture, Commerce and Industries—P. C. Nicolson, Leesville.

For Railroad Commissioner—J. C. Inabinet, Newberry.

How to Keep Boys and Girls on the Farms.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published at Springfield, Ohio, Herbert Quick, the editor, writes a most interesting editorial on the advantages of having practical education in rural schools. Following is an extract from his editorial:

"If our boys and girls are given the right sort of education at home they will not desert us and go to the city. They will stay on the farm if they are so educated as to feel that on the farm they may become successful.

"In an Iowa county the rural pupils were examined as to what they wanted to do with their lives. Most of the boys, and almost all of the girls, answered that they meant to leave the farm when they grew up.

"Two years afterward the boys and girls in the same school were asked the same question. Most of the girls, and almost all of the boys, answered that they meant to stay on the farm.

"What had made the change? Just this: the teachers had been given more practical work to do in the schools. They had been giving the teaching a farm slant. They had been working in the schools on farm mattters, and the girls had been studying cooking, sewing, housekeeping, and the care of the house and children. And they had forgotten about leaving the farm. They had been doing pleasant, interesting, practical work, and they were happy. They had come to see that there is just as fascinating work, just as intellectual work, just as big work in the country as any of them could expect to get in the city—and much higher work than most of them could expect. I think few farmers in that county would begrudge high wages to teachers doing that sort of work.

Farming and Prosperity.

(From the Rochester Sentinel.)

To conserve the soil, to raise abundant crops and an adequate supply of live stock; to study and apply the most efficient and economical methods of production, and to sell the stock only when ready for market, adopting the above as a steady, permanent policy, will contribute more to the prosperity of farmers themselves and to the prosperity of the nation as a whole, than all other causes put together.

Why Don't You Use the Road Drag?

(From The Progressive Farmer.)

When will our people appreciate the value of the split log drag? When will they quit thinking that they can have passable highways only by spending thousands and thousands of dollars for surfaced roads, and that if a county cannot afford these, its people must pull along through mud and ruts till Gabriel blows his horn?

When will each county arrange to pay some farmer for dragging the road nearest him after each wet spell?

And when will you, Mr. Reader—when will you talk over this matter with your county commissioners and your road authorities?

We have printed stories enough showing the value of the drag, but here's another from The Monroe Enquirer that we pass along:

"People coming to Monroe over the Wadesboro road last Saturday morning found a rough piece of road from Rock Rest to Lee's Mill, the wheel ruts deep and many of them, and travel slow and difficult. Returning late that afternoon they found that same stretch of road finer than any $3,000-a-mile macadam road, a smooth surface and a road which was a delight to drive on. What made the change? Why, Mr. J. J. Morgan had used a King road drag for a short while, that was all. Just one man and a team and that drag had done the work and the bill for the taxpayers to foot will be less than $2. The road drag—the man who invented it should have babies named after him, and may his feet press the golden streets when he leaves this old world. The road drag—let it be used more. It is the cheapest way to make a good road, when used at the right time. Use the drag. When used promptly just after the March rains end, it will level down the ruts and ridges and insure smoother traveling the whole year through. But to be really effective it should be used after every wet spell."

OPEN REWARD FUND FOR WOLFE SLAYER

Constitution Grocer Anxious to Put Stop to Activities of Bandits Who Invade Stores in Atlanta.

R. A. Costley, a grocer of Constitution, Ga., near the Federal prison, called The Constitution by telephone yesterday and started a reward fund by the offer of $50 for evidence leading to the capture and conviction of the murderer of Harry Wolfe, the grocery-man who was shot to death by a negro highwayman in his store, at 276 Chapel street, Saturday night.

"This thing of desperadoes entering grocery stores and holding up people is becoming altogether too common an occurrence," said Mr. Costley. "We've got to put a stop to this sort of thing somehow and the most effective way I know is to hang some of these murderers.

"The grocers of Atlanta are incensed over Saturday night's outrage. I will offer a reward of $50 for the capture and conviction of the negro who killed Mr. Wolfe, and I hope that other grocerymen will see fit to add to the sum I have offered."

The police are on the trail of the negro highwayman who entered the store of Harry Wolfe, at 276 Chapel street, Saturday night and killed him. No arrest has been made up to the present time, but plainclothes police men and detectives, armed with the name of the murderer, and a good description, were out searching for him during the early morning hours. They promise an arrest within a short time.

MARSHALL TO ADDRESS AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE

Vice President Will Speak at Atlanta Theater Tuesday, May 26.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of Agnes Scott college, at Decatur, will be celebrated May 25-27.

On Sunday, May 24, the college commencement sermon will be delivered at the Decatur Presbyterian church by Rev. C. W. Daniel. The quarto-centennial celebration will begin Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, with exercises on the campus.

On Tuesday morning, beginning at 10:30, on the campus, the historical address and greetings from distinguished educators will take place.

Thomas R. Marshall, the vice president of the United States, will make an address Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Atlanta theater. The graduating exercises and an address to the graduating class will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the college chapel.

TEXAN IS MURDERED BY HUERTA'S SOLDIERS

Laurel's Body Recovered From Grave Near Nuevo Laredo. Federals Denied Execution.

Laredo, Texas, May 3.—The body of Porfirio Laurel, an American rancher, who disappeared last November, was recovered today from a grave near Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. Laurel had been arrested by Mexican federals who persistently denied reports of his execution, and until the body was exhumed today the mystery of the Texan's absence was unexplained.

Recovery of the ranchman's body was made possible by the evacuation of Nuevo Laredo by the federals. Rebel officers commanding the constitutionalist forces, which now occupies the town, interposed no objections to the investigation of relatives and friends which resulted in the location of the grave. The body will be brought to the American side tomorrow for burial.

Laurel's son identified his father's body by a spectacle case and scraps of clothing in the grave, and measurements of the body tallied with known measurements of the dead man.

Nothing definite was ever known of the circumstances of Laurel's arrest by the federals, unlike the case of Clemente Vergara, which was promptly recalled here when the border heard that Laurel's body had been found. A coincidence is that Laurel disappeared near Hidalgo, Mex., the town opposite Vergara's ranch. Vergara was taken to Hidalgo after arrest by the federals and was buried there after being killed.

It was commonly rumored at the time Laurel disappeared that he had been taken to Nuevo Laredo and executed. Vergara's body was recovered secretly after his case had attracted international attention and been made the subject of vigorous protests to the Mexican government.

U. S. TROOPS REPLACE GUARDSMEN OF TEXAS

Washington, May 3.—Secretary Garrison tonight, ordered five companies of coast artillery to border patrol duty at Brownsville, Texas, to replace Texas militiamen now on duty there. Secretary Garrison had suggested to Governor Colquitt, of Texas, that it would be difficult for state and federal troops to operate at the same point. It was understood Governor Colquitt would withdraw the state troops on the arrival of the artillery.

Brownsville, Texas, May 3.—Six hundred United States troops will, tomorrow, replace a regiment of the Texas national guard on patrol duty here, under an agreement between Secretary of War Garrison and Governor O. B. Colquitt. The secretary thought it impracticable for two forces to operate in the same territory. Governor Colquitt, however, is expected for the present to retain militia companies at Mercedes, San Benito and other small border points not touched by the federal troops.

Eleven companies of coast defense artillery will comprise the new force to guard the Texas border. They include one company from Fort Morgan, Mobile, Ala.; two from New Orleans, three from Fort Barancas, Pensacola, Fla., and one from Galveston, Texas. It is understood they will be equipped as infantrymen.

New Orleans, May 3.—Jackson barracks here was today deserted by the United States military tenants, who are ordered under rush orders from Washington, and started for the Mexican border to relieve state militia. Seven companies—Nineteth and One Hundred and Sixty-fourth coast artillery—are in command of Major Samuel Kephart, and will be used as infantry in border duty. The orders to go to the border received early this morning. Twenty men from Fort Morgan, Texas, will be detailed to man the barracks here.

TULL C. WATERS REFUSES TO DISCUSS HIS RECORD

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY:—

Mr. Tull C. Waters in his speeches and newspaper publications persistently refuses to discuss his record as a county commissioner and harps on certain of his fellow members of the board.

It is plain that Mr. Waters, where HIS OWN RECORD IS CONCERNED, has neither defense nor explanation.

He has not and cannot explain why, as chairman of the board, he has scattered the convicts over the county on PRIVATE JOBS, while vitally important PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS are neglected, such as resurfacing Ponce de Leon avenue, building the Butler street and Highland avenue sewer, paving Cherokee avenue, paving East Fair street, building the Ormond street sewer, paving Whitehall street, paving the road to College Park, paving the Campbellton road, paving West Simpson street, paving the old Mayson & Turner's Ferry road from West Hunter to Simpson, paving Hemphill avenue in the city limits, improving South Pryor street, and many others in thickly populated sections where the people have been promised relief for years.

He has not and cannot explain why this year he voted to pay Warren Bros. $47.50 per ton for asphalt when last year the county bought asphalt for $25 per ton and less, and failed to explain why he is now advocating the employment of an employee of Warren Bros. at $250 per month to RECEIVE AND INSPECT WARREN BROS. MATERIAL.

He has not and cannot explain why he and General Clifford L. Anderson awarded a contract for painting the county's river bridges for $6,000, without competitive bids, which was a clear violation of the law.

He has not and dares not attempt to explain grading Waters avenue, which LEADS DIRECTLY TO HIS FARM, this work being done this year while PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS WAITED—such as those I have mentioned above.

He has not and dares not attempt to explain the construction of Macon Drive, which RUNS ACROSS HIS FARM.

He has not and dares not attempt to explain taking the convicts away from imperative work, affecting hundreds of people, in order to construct a brand-new boulevard through the 200-acre country estate of General Clifford L. Anderson, 14 miles north of Atlanta, he and General Anderson being a majority of the public works committee of the board.

He has not and cannot explain why he has consistently and bitterly opposed modern machinery and business methods in the public works department.

These things I called the public's attention to last Wednesday morning, and Mr. Waters in speeches and through the press made the promise that he would answer them FULLY in the Sunday papers.

His answer contained not a single word of explanation or defense.

Instead of dealing with his own record, he attempted again to mislead the public by rehashing his private quarrel with other members of the county board. In this quarrel I have no interest. If members of the board have made mistakes I stand ready to criticise them as severely as I have criticised Mr. Waters.

The issue between me and Mr. Waters is HIS record as a county commissioner.

IT IS ON HIS RECORD THAT HE MUST STAND OR FALL.

In conclusion, I wish to state to a falsehood contained in Mr. Waters' card Sunday morning, that I am not connected with any individual, firm or corporation with which Mr. S. B. Turman has any connection whatever, either directly or indirectly, as agent or otherwise.

Respectfully,

OSCAR MILLS.

SOUTHERN CONGRESS CONVENES IN MEMPHIS

Sociological Problems Vital to South to Be Discussed—Dr. John E. White to Speak.

Memphis, Tenn., May 3.—Problems of vital interest to the people of the south will be discussed at the third annual convention of the Southern Sociological congress, which meets here next Wednesday for a three days' session. Delegates from all the southern states, as well as the advance guard of visitors for the National Conference on Charities and Corrections will be in attendance.

The leading topics for the congress. It is announced, will be the "Relationship of the Churches to Social Service" and "The Betterment of Race Relations in the South."

Dr. White to Speak.

Former Governor W. H. Mann, of Virginia, president of the congress, will be the principal speaker at the opening session Wednesday, and other speakers will include Governor Ben Hooper, of Tennessee, and Dr. J. E. White, of Atlanta, first vice president. Noted speakers will address each meeting of the convention.

This congress was organized two years ago at Nashville, Tenn., at a meeting of delegates from southern states, called by Governor Hooper. According to its platform, the association stands for the abolition of the convict lease system; for the extension and improvement of juvenile courts and reformatories; for the protection or care of defectives; for uniform laws on marriage and divorce; compulsory education and the recognition of alcoholism in its relation to crime and pauperism.

This will be the forty-first annual meeting of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections. In addition to this organization, nine others affiliating more or less with the Conferences of Charities and Corrections will meet here at the same time. It is estimated that more than 2,000 delegates and visitors will attend the meetings.

Workers in Many Fields.

This great organization of expert social workers in many fields represents modern thought in the reformation of the defective and criminal, on the idea that prevention is better than cure, and that cure is better than punishment. The meetings will be devoted to discussions of health, social hygiene, family and community life, neighborhood development, settlement work, public charities, prison reform, child welfare and other kindred subjects.

Under the leadership of standing committees of the conference, the work of the week has been divided into nine different sections of meetings, but the entire program has been planned in a harmonious manner, with the purpose of facilitating discussion both of the major issues of social reform and the more technical requirements of the special groups of workers.

Scores of the most prominent leaders in reform work throughout the country are on the program for addresses and lectures. In addition an interesting array of exhibits in the field of social work is being prepared, and the session will next Friday, but the conference will recess on Saturday night in honor of the closing session of the Southern Sociological Congress.

DR. RIDLEY TO ADDRESS ATLANTA SUFFRAGISTS

Dr. Ridley, of the Central Baptist church, spoke at 10 o'clock Sunday on "Wasting Time," using the international Sunday school lesson as a text, and at 11 o'clock his theme was "Jesus the Good Shepherd." There was one addition following the sermon, Arthur Hall, his subject being "Putting Off One's Duty." The sermon was evangelistic, and based on the words of Pharoah to Moses, who had inquired as to when he should ask God to take away the plague of frogs. Pharoah answered "Tomorrow." The theme was the proneness of human nature to put off as long as possible dealing with God.

Dr. Ridley is to speak before the Atlanta Suffragist association in the Ansley hotel Wednesday afternoon, and give his lecture on "The Largest Pole Knocks he Persimmon" at the Gordon Street Baptist church on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Rodgers, the music director of the church, is to sing both at the Ansley hotel and at the lecture.

Women With Mexican Army.

At Manzanillo I met General Telles with his command, waiting to be transported by steamer to Mazatland, writes Fritz Arno von de Ellen in Harper's Weekly, and here I saw the Mexican soldier stripped of the pretenses of a dress parade. He is often accompanied by his wife and children, or lacking these, his mistress. Herded together in freight cars like cattle, whole families arrived at Manzanillo, and many of the women carried babies in their arms. The camp suggested a cross between a Boy Scouts' outing and a picnic ground. Imagine a commissary department that depends upon women to cook meals for husbands and lovers. Imagine disheveled females and dirty children outnumbering the men. As a human spectacle viewed in the twentieth century, right next door to the United States, it is interesting. In a military sense, it is
